U.S., CHINA STUDYING CRISIS

Southern Vote Squabble Looms

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission's failure to gain access to county voter records may touch off a legal struggle which could forecast effectiveness of the federal agency in the South.

Implications are strong that a state's right to governmental privacy as well as racial discrimination will be prime factors in any federal action over Macon County's closely guarded registration files.

White supremacy will not be surrendered easily in Macon County, where racial strife long has been commonplace, these observers say. And Atty. Gen. John Patterson, Democratic nominee and thus assured of the next governorship in this Democratic stronghold of the Deep South, has solidly blessed efforts to maintain white reign.

Negroes outnumber white residents about 6-1 in the county, voters rule by a 2-1 margin and sew up all county and city government posts.

Defiance of any possible change home of famed Tuskegee Institute. At the polls, however, white in this pattern came to the fore Monday when county voter registration officials refused to turn over their records of two of the commission's agents from Washington.

Indications that a showdown may be brewing came Tuesday night in a telephone interview between the Montgomery Advertiser and A. H. Rosenfeld, director of the commission's Office of Complaints, Information and Surveys.

"The commission will have to consider some sort of action when it meets in Washington Thursday," Rosenfeld said, "but I don't have the slightest idea what the action will be."

Rosenfeld, reached at Alexandria, Va., said he had not heard from Burton J. Goodyear and O. J. Peterson, the agents who he said "intended to check the voter records as a result of complaints we had received."

'Bad' Winter Is Forecast

Old Almanac Warns: Beware Ides of March

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — It's going to be a wonderful bad winter, said the sages in the idiom of this famed Conestoga wagon country.

It's all down in crafty black and white in the new John Baer's Almanac for 1959, out today for its 134th year as a sheet anchor of agriculture and a sturdy survivor of quaint Americana.

Baer's Almanac treats the reader to weather lore, cooking recipes, jokes and puns, gems of wisdom from the old masters, folk tales, little poems and tips on animal husbandry. It offers an engaging change of pace, foxy twists, and a mixing of old-fashioned advice with occasional concessions to modernity.

Backing up its forecast of a winter of snowstorms and cold waves, the almanac notes exultantly that it foretold the snow of last March, "the worst in the memory of living men." That storm immobilized a vast chunk of the nation for days and brougnt back pioneer rigors.

No Penalty To Be Levied In Grid Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Commissioner H. W. Emswiler of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn. said today he plans no action against Middleport High School for alleged "unsportsmanlike conduct" on the part of its players in a football game with Logan last Friday.

Emswiler said a letter he received from three game officials reported the use of slugging, and threats and vulgar profanity against the officials, by Middleport players.

The commissioner said he received another letter today from Middleport School Supt. L. W. McComas and Principal Earl Knight, expressing regret over the incident. The letter assured Emswiler that neither Middleport Coach John Thompson nor his players had premeditated plans for unsportsmanlike conduct.

The schools officials said both they and the seven Middleport players expelled from the game will write school authorities at Logan, the team there, and the game officials, apologizing for what happened.

The Middleport officials said any of their players who are eliminated from future games will be prohibited from further interscholastic competition, and that foul language by any boy will be banned.

Middleport had gone into the game with a 5-0 won-lost record, but Logan was the victor, 48-0.

Fund Total Just Short Of '58 Goal

Collections for the Pickaway County Community Fund hit 95 per cent today. Total money received by the fund is $27,109. Goal is $28,500.

Although the PCCF failed to reach its goal in the four-week campaign, which ended about 10 days ago, money still is being sent to the fund and further solicitations are to be made.

As of noon today the fund was just $1,391 short of the mark. If last minute efforts are made to complete call backs on residences and businesses, the goal is in sight.

All Pickaway County residents are asked to send their contributions to Karl Drum, First National Bank, Circleville. If you have not been contacted by a solicitor in the city call Mrs. R. L. Brehmer Jr., GR 4-5535. If you live in the county call Charles Radcliff, GR 4-2176 or Charles Walters, GR 4-2685. If yo cannot reach any of these fund officials call campaign chairman L. D. Varble at GR 4-2156.

Varble said today that it is time to make that extra effort to put the fund "over the top" for the second year in a row. Contribution of just a nickel by everyone in the county would complete the fund's task for another year. It also would assure the operation of the fund agencies would be maintained for 1959—a vital need in the county.

Ike Carries His Campaign Into Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower carried his vote-Republican offensive into the Midwest today after raking the Democrats in a California foray. Former President Truman said Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon are jittery over election prospects.

Eisenhower flew to Chicago Tuesday night from San Francisco, where he blamed Democrats in Congress for preventing enactment of his proposals to "fumigate" corruptly run labor unions.

The President also said Democrats have given impetus to what he called a "dangerous drift toward centralization" of government.

He was billed to make a coast-to-coast televised speech from Chicago tonight on behalf of Republican candidates for Congress.

One of Eisenhower's aims in going to California was to bring harmony back to the GOP ticket there. However, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight told newsmen "nothing has changed" to close the breach between him and Sen. William F. Knowland. Knight is seeking the Senate seat Knowland is vacating to run for the California governorship.

Truman was due in Wilmington, Del., to beat the drums for Democratic candidates.

He said, "A 'sound' government to the Republicans is the kind of government in which the President makes nice sounds while the vice president snarls."

Truman said the Eisenhower administration was responsible for heavy unemployment, record living costs, a drop in farm income, a big federal deficit, dangerous delays in defense buildup and what he called "a decay of our world position through blunder, bluster, and brinkmanship."

The former President has cautioned Democrats to run scared. But he seemed to ignore his own advice Tuesday night. He told a party dinner at New Castle, Pa., that the Nov. 4 election will bring the biggest Democratic landslide since 1932.

Truman said he had been asked if the Democrats had the jitters because Eisenhower and Nixon were on the campaign trail. It's Eisenhower and Nixon who have

A-Tripleheader Due Today on Nevada Desert

The yellow gradually dissolved into a pink afterglow visible for several minutes in Las Vegas some 90 miles away.

The blast, from beneath a balloon 1,500 feet above Yucca Flat, was described by the Atomic Energy Commission as about half nominal in yield. That means it had the power of about 10,000 tons of TNT — or about half the destructive force of each of the bombs dropped on the Japanese cities of Haroshima and Nagasaki at the end of World War II.

The shot, nicknamed Socorro, was the first of three blasts set for today, weather permitting. All of the tests have been postponed at least once and one of them eight times.

Logan Elm Educators Drive Hard for Levy, Bond Vote

LOGAN ELM HIGH SCHOOL — Pictured above is the architects' drawing of the proposed Logan Elm District consolidated high school. The drawing was submitted by the architectural firm Van Buren, Ayers and Blackburn, Columbus. In the background is the vocational agricultural and industrial arts building. On the left is the gymnasium and auditorium. If the $940,000 bond issue passes in the coming general election, November 4, actual school building construction will start in the spring of 1959 and school board officials hope to open it in the fall of 1960.

Residents of the Logan Elm School District are hard at work in their school area informing all residents of the necessity of voting for the proposed $940,000 bond issue for building a consolidated high school.

Interested Logan Elm residents also are encouraging voters to pass the mill levy for school current operating expenses that will appear on the same November 4 ballot as the school building bond issue.

The board recently found it necessary to place the two tax issues on the same election ticket. The bond issue tax levy is for 3.67 mills for the consolidated district.

The current operating tax levy is a renewal of 2-mills and a new tax levy of 3-mills for a total of 5-mills on the general election ballot. The two levies total 8.67 mills and is one of the largest ever asked by an area board of education.

• • •

THE CURRICULUM planned for the proposed Logan Elm high school will more than double that offered by the one of the present high schools and offer considerable more than the other nigh school.

The proposed school is planned to accomodate 450 pupils. It will have eight lecture - classrooms, two science laboratories, two business education classrooms, home economics laboratories, industrial arts shop and classroom,

Library, mechanical drawing shop, vocational agricultural shop and classroom, art room, kitchen-lunch facilities, gymnasium - auditorium with maximum seating capacity of 1,100, music facilities, clinic,

Administrative offices, plus the required heating, custodial storage and rest room facilities. The entire plan can be expanded economically to house 550 students.

The grade school enrollment at Saltcreek and Pickaway Twps. schools will expand into the present high school rooms of those two schools.

Part of the $940,000 bond issue will be used to construct a multi-purpose room and kitchen at the Washington Twp. school and thereby make the facilities at that school more nearly equal to those at Saltcreek and Pickaway.

It is recognized that Washington is by far the fastest growing of the three grade schools and has needed the above construction for a number of years.

• • •

"THE RISING costs of education, the demands of industry on our school for personnel, the increase in college entrance requirements and state pressure have made consolidation of our county schools ineitable," Dr. Wells Wilson, president of the Logan Elm Board, stated today.

"We, of the Logan Elm School district, are asked to ote on November 4 for a bond issue which will permit construction of a consolidated high school in this district," continued Wilson.

The proposed Logan Elm school will be a modern, fireproof, completely-equipped high school building on a centrally - located 35-acre site. In planning the size school to be built, the board took into consideration the probability of acquiring the local school districts of Clearcreek Twp., Fairfield County and Kingston-Union, of Ross County.

All permanent and necessary facilities, such as laboratories, workshops and cafetarias have been planned to accommodate a larger school enrollment than is in the district at present.

The building will be constructed so that additional classroom space may be erected without difficulty.

The Logan Elm Board felt that a consolidated high school was urgent and necessary to enable the children of its district finally to reap the educational advantages of a complete high school curriculum. Included in the adanced curriculum will be a badly-needed guidance program, available to all pupils.

O'Neill Says Ohio Union Chiefs Use Falsehoods, Intimidation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill in a statewide television address Tuesday night accused Ohio labor leaders of using false propaganda and intimidation to try to defeat at the polls the proposed constitutional amendment regulating labor contracts.

O'Neill said the threats included "two central Ohio cities" where "labor bosses threatened to direct their members to boycott the United Appeals because United Appeals leaders were supporting right-to-work."

O'Neill told newsmen he did not reveal the names of the cities because "the people who told me of this are fearful they (labor leaders) would make reprisals against United Appeals for the information having been given out."

Twice during the 30-minute telecast O'Neill exhibited pamphlets he said were being distributed by labor bosses to Ohio workers. One aimed at Negroes tried to link the proposed amendment to the segregation fight in the South. The other warned that adopted of the amendment would mean lower wages and higher unemployment.

O'Neill said the information on these handbills was false and "designed to scare the worker, appeal to his fear, his prejudice and play upon his lack of information."

O'Neill also displayed an advertisement in the Portsmouth Times in which a local merchant disavowed a report that he supported the amendment. O'Neill said the merging boycotted.

In Portsmouth, the Merchant, Lloyd Kinard, said he did not see the telecast but was told about it. "I was not forced to sign that," Kinard said in commenting on the advertisement. "That was voluntary on my part. It was a signed affidavit."

Kinard said he had worked in filling stations since leaving high school and for the past 18 years has operated his own station.

The governor said he favored the proposed amendment because "I want to protect the union member from corrupt labor bosses and give the union member some weapon with which to fight corruption and oppression in his union."

The proposed amendment states "No employer or labor organization shall deny or abridge the right to work by requiring membership or non-membership in, or payment or non-payment of money to, a labor organization as a condition of employment or continued employment in this state."

Capistrano Swallows Set for Flight

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—For the 181st time of record, the swallows of Mission San Juan Capistrano are due to leave their summer home Thursday.

Legend has it that these North American swallows quit their nests in the mission Oct. 23, the day of St. Juan, and return March 19, St. Joseph's Day.

There may be variations either way, depending upon the weather and the leaders' inclinations. If the wing commander has a hangover or spots storm clouds to the south, he could keep the swallow squadron around a day or so.

This sort of heresy is frowned on in these quarters, however. The target days are held by some of the devout to be inviolate. They point out that San Juan and St. Joseph's Day are feast days and that for reasons beyond the ken of mortal man the swallows use these days for their migrations from and to this historic mission, founded in 1776 by Father Junipero Serra.

There will be special masses and pageantry Thursday in the mission. Catholic schoolchildren will parade in monks' custumes and in Spanish dress to the tuneful accompaniment of mariachis. The mission bells in the Sacred Garden will toll later in observance of the death of St. John Capistrano, from whom the mission gets its name. He was born in 1386 in the village of Capistrano, Abruzzi, Italy, died Oct. 23, 1456, after the Battle of Belgrade.

With the tolling of the bells, the graceful swallows, among the very best fliers in space, are due to be off for Central and South America, where the winter feeding is better, The old will show the young the way. They are believed to fly mostly over water, without stop. They have been observed as far south as Patagonia.

Spring calls them back to this picturesque mission village. It is here the swallows build their nests and raise their families.

Nationalists, Reds Continue Artillery Duel

Communists Warned American Convoy Escort May Return

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles and President Chiang Kai-shek held new crisis talks today as a fierce artillery duel raged between Communist and Nationalist big guns.

On this second day of Dulles' visit, the United States warned Red China it will resume escorting supply ships to Quemoy if that becomes a military necessity. But the Reds stepped up their bombardment of the Quemoys, raining nearly 1,000 shells an hour on the offshore stronghold.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said their guns on Quemoy answered the Communist barrage but gave no figures on what AP Correspondent David Lancashire on Quemoy called a shell-for-shell return.

The Defense Ministry tally of Red shelling was 5,293 shells between noon and 6 p.m. making 8,376 rounds for the past 12 hours.

Lancashire reported nine civilians have been killed and seven wounded during the three days of Communist shelling.

Dulles and his aides held three meetings with Chiang Tuesday, a 45-minute session this morning, and met tonight for another state dinner to be followed by talks.

The first announced result of the conference was a statement authorized by Dulles and issued by U.S. Ambassador Everett F. Drumright warning that U.S. warships may return to escort duty to Quemoy. The escorting was halted after the Reds first proclaimed a cease-fire.

There were indications the Nationalists had hoped for a stronger statement saying convoying will be resumed immediately.

The U.S. Taiwan (Formosa) Defense Command's spokesman said no orders to resume convoying have been issued because during the 15-day cease-fire Quemoy was stockpiled with food and ammunition enough for a winter's sige.

Asst. Secretary of State Walter Robertson, who had accompanied Dulles to Formosa, told reporters the secretary and Chiang had made "very definite gains . . . in clarifying some of the confusions that existed in our country and in China." He added there had been "no rift of any kind."

Observers anticipated that at the most the meetings would produce a better understanding, and a joint declaration of continued cooperation.

Robertson denied that the offshore islands were being held by the Nationalists as a base for future invasion of the mainland.

"There isn't anyone above the intelligence of a military moron who thinks for one moment these islands are a base for an attack on the mainland," he declared.

"The forces are there in strength (about 10,000 men) not for an offensive but for defensive purposes."

Until the Reds ended the cease-fire, Dulles reportedly had hoped to get Chiang to withdraw a large number of them as evidence he did not plan to use the islands as the jumping-off point for an invasion. Dulles had hoped this would induce the Communists to make their cease-fire permanent.

Ohio Idle Pay List Still Drops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A reduction of about 2,000 in the number of new and continuing claims for unemployment compensation has been recorded for the week ended Oct. 18.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation today reported 13,701 new claims filed in the week compared with 15,853 the previous week. There were 92,09 continuing claims on file compared with 94,289 for the week ended Oct. 11.

The average of new claims filed weekly in October of 1957 was 11,770 and that of continuing claims 53,029.

In the extended benefits category there were 3,932 new claims filed last week, continuing a weekly drop from the 4,218 filed in the week ended Sept. 27. Total of continuing claims for the extended benefits is 63,728.

Residents of the Logan Elm School District are hard at work in their school area informing all residents of the necessity of voting for the proposed $940,000 bond issue for building a consolidated high school.

Interested Logan Elm residents also are encouraging voters to pass the mill levy for school current operating expenses that will appear on the same November 4 ballot as the school building bond issue.

The board recently found it necessary to place the two tax issues on the same election ticket. The bond issue tax levy is for 3.67 mills for the consolidated district

The current operating tax levy is a renewal of 2-mills and a new tax levy of 3-mills for a total of 5-mills on the general election ballot. The two levies total 8.67 mills and is one of the largest ever asked by an area board of education.

THE CURRICULUM planned for the proposed Logan Elm high school will more than double that offered by the one of the present high schools and offer considerable more than the other nigh school.

The proposed school is planned to accomodate 450 pupils. It will have eight lecture - classrooms, two science laboratories, two business education classrooms, home economics laboratories, industrial arts shop and classroom,

Library, mechanical drawing shop, vocational agricultural shop and classroom, art room, kitchen-lunch facilities, gymnasium - auditorium with maximum seating capacity of 1,100, music facilities, clinic,

Administrative offices, plus the required heating, custodial storage and rest room facilities. The entire plan can be expanded economically to house 550 students.

The grade school enrollment at Saltcreek and Pickaway Twps. schools will expand into the present high school rooms of those two schools.

Part of the $940,000 bond issue will be used to construct a multi-purpose room and kitchen at the Washington Twp. school and thereby make the facilities at that school more nearly equal to those at Saltcreek and Pickaway.

It is recognized that Washington is by far the fastest growing of the three grade schools and has needed the above construction for a number of years.

"THE RISING costs of education, the demands of industry on our school for personnel, the increase in college entrance requirements and state pressure have made consolidation of our county schools ineitable," Dr. Wells Wilson, president of the Logan Elm Board, stated today.

"We, of the Logan Elm School district, are asked to ote on November 4 for a bond issue which will permit construction of a consolidated high school in this district," continued Wilson.

The proposed Logan Elm school will be a modern, fireproof, completely-equipped high school building on a centrally - located 35-acre site. In planning the size school to be built, the board took into consideration the probability of acquiring the local school districts of Clearcreek Twp., Fairfield County and Kingston-Union, of Ross County.

All permanent and necessary facilities, such as laboratories, workshops and cafetarias have been planned to accommodate a larger school enrollment than is in the district at present.

The building will be constructed so that additional classroom space may be erected without difficulty.

The Logan Elm Board felt that a consolidated high school was urgent and necessary to enable the children of its district finally to reap the educational advantages of a complete high school curriculum. Included in the adanced curriculum will be a badly-needed guidance program, available to all pupils.

O'Neill Says Ohio Union Chiefs Use Falsehoods, Intimidation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill in a statewide television address Tuesday night accused Ohio labor leaders of using false propaganda and intimidation to try to defeat at the polls the proposed constitutional amendment regulating labor contracts.

O'Neill said the threats included "two central Ohio cities" where "labor bosses threatened to direct their members to boycott the United Appeals because United Appeals leaders were supporting right-to-work."

O'Neill told newsmen he did not reveal the names of the cities because "the people who told me of this are fearful they (labor leaders) would make reprisals against United Appeals for the information having been given out."

Twice during the 30-minute telecast O'Neill exhibited pamphlets he said were being distributed by labor bosses to Ohio workers. One aimed at Negroes tried to link the proposed amendment to the segregation fight in the South. The other warned that adopted of the amendment would mean lower wages and higher unemployment.

O'Neill said the information on these handbills was false and "designed to scare the worker, appeal to his fear, his prejudice and play upon his lack of information."

O'Neill also displayed an advertisement in the Portsmouth Times in which a local merchant disavowed a report that he supported the amendment. O'Neill said the merging boycotted.

In Portsmouth, the Merchant, Lloyd Kinard, said he did not see the telecast but was told about it. "I was not forced to sign that," Kinard said in commenting on the advertisement. "That was voluntary on my part. It was a signed affidavit."

Kinard said he had worked in filling stations since leaving high school and for the past 18 years has operated his own station.

The governor said he favored the proposed amendment because "I want to protect the union member from corrupt labor bosses and give the union member some weapon with which to fight corruption and oppression in his union."

The proposed amendment states "No employer or labor organization shall deny or abridge the right to work by requiring membership or non-membership in, or payment or non-payment of money to, a labor organization as a condition of employment or continued employment in this state."

Capistrano Swallows Set for Flight

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—For the 181st time of record, the swallows of Mission San Juan Capistrano are due to leave their summer home Thursday.

Legend has it that these North American swallows quit their nests in the mission Oct. 23, the day of St. Juan, and return March 19, St. Joseph's Day.

There may be variations either way, depending upon the weather and the leaders' inclinations. If the wing commander has a hangover or spots storm clouds to the south, he could keep the swallow squadron around a day or so.

This sort of heresy is frowned on in these quarters, however. The target days are held by some of the devout to be inviolate. They point out that San Juan and St. Joseph's Day are feast days and that for reasons beyond the ken of mortal man the swallows use these days for their migrations from and to this historic mission, founded in 1776 by Father Junipero Serra.

There will be special masses and pageantry Thursday in the mission. Catholic schoolchildren will parade in monks' custumes and in Spanish dress to the tuneful accompaniment of mariachis. The mission bells in the Sacred Garden will toll later in observance of the death of St. John Capistrano, from whom the mission gets its name. He was born in 1386 in the village of Capistrano, Abruzzi, Italy, died Oct. 23, 1456, after the Battle of Belgrade.

With the tolling of the bells, the graceful swallows, among the very best fliers in space, are due to be off for Central and South America, where the winter feeding is better, The old will show the young the way. They are believed to fly mostly over water, without stop. They have been observed as far south as Patagonia.

Spring calls them back to this picturesque mission village. It is here the swallows build their nests and raise their families.

Vicious Northeaster Hits Carolina, Fades

Communists Warned American Convoy Escort May Return

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles and President Chiang Kai-shek held new crisis talks today as a fierce artillery duel raged between Communist and Nationalist big guns.

On this second day of Dulles' visit, the United States warned Red China it will resume escorting supply ships to Quemoy if that becomes a military necessity. But the Reds stepped up their bombardment of the Quemoys, raining nearly 1,000 shells an hour on the offshore stronghold.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said their guns on Quemoy answered the Communist barrage but gave no figures on what AP Correspondent David Lancashire on Quemoy called a shell-for-shell return.

The Defense Ministry tally of Red shelling was 5,293 shells between noon and 6 p.m. making 8,376 rounds for the past 12 hours.

Lancashire reported nine civilians have been killed and seven wounded during the three days of Communist shelling.

Dulles and his aides held three meetings with Chiang Tuesday, a 45-minute session this morning, and met tonight for another state dinner to be followed by talks.

The first announced result of the conference was a statement authorized by Dulles and issued by U.S. Ambassador Everett F. Drumright warning that U.S. warships may return to escort duty to Quemoy. The escorting was halted after the Reds first proclaimed a cease-fire.

There were indications the Nationalists had hoped for a stronger statement saying convoying will be resumed immediately.

The U.S. Taiwan (Formosa) Defense Command's spokesman said no orders to resume convoying have been issued because during the 15-day cease-fire Quemoy was stockpiled with food and ammunition enough for a winter's sige.

Asst. Secretary of State Walter Robertson, who had accompanied Dulles to Formosa, told reporters the secretary and Chiang had made "very definite gains . . . in clarifying some of the confusions that existed in our country and in China." He added there had been "no rift of any kind."

Observers anticipated that at the most the meetings would produce a better understanding, and a joint declaration of continued cooperation.

Robertson denied that the offshore islands were being held by the Nationalists as a base for future invasion of the mainland.

"There isn't anyone above the intelligence of a military moron who thinks for one moment these islands are a base for an attack on the mainland," he declared.

"The forces are there in strength (about 10,000 men) not for an offensive but for defensive purposes."

Until the Reds ended the cease-fire, Dulles reportedly had hoped to get Chiang to withdraw a large number of them as evidence he did not plan to use the islands as the jumping-off point for an invasion. Dulles had hoped this would induce the Communists to make their cease-fire permanent.

Ohio Idle Pay List Still Drops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A reduction of about 2,000 in the number of new and continuing claims for unemployment compensation has been recorded for the week ended Oct. 18.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation today reported 13,701 new claims filed in the week compared with 15,853 the previous week. There were 92,09 continuing claims on file compared with 94,289 for the week ended Oct. 11.

The average of new claims filed weekly in October of 1957 was 11,770 and that of continuing claims 53,029.

In the extended benefits category there were 3,932 new claims filed last week, continuing a weekly drop from the 4,218 filed in the week ended Sept. 27. Total of continuing claims for the extended benefits is 63,728.

Ohio Lawyer Is Accused In Kidnaping

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York magistrate has ordered a Canton, Ohio, lawyer held to the grand jury on kidnaping charges.

The lawyer, Louis Martinez, 34, of (336 Rice Ave.) Canton, is accused of complicity in the kidnaping of Sidney Naubauer, 38, a Farmingdale, N. J., attorney.

Similar charges against a young student follower of Cuban revolutionist Fidel Castro were dismissed Tuesday in Felony Court by Magistrate Joseph Martinis. He is Joaquin Gomez, 24, an architecture student at Pratt Institute and secretary of a pro-Castro club.

Naubauer told police he was abducted at gunpoint Thursday and taken to a Bronx apartment. Last Saturday he managed to escape, Naubauer said, after seizing a revolver while his guards were asleep.

He said Cuban revolutionists, who had contracted to purchase guns and medical supplies from Naubauer's partner, Peter Leblavic, Montclair, N. J., exporter, had accused Leblavic of failing to produce the promised arms after getting a down payment.

He was renewing—in sharper words — his contention that he could have had agreement on the same term years earlier.

Truman said he didn't do it because he knew the result would be to free Communist forces to apply pressures elsewhere.

Nixon, whose stumping has taken him across the country, was bound for New England today, with stops scheduled in Hartford, Conn., Burlington, Vt., and Providence, R.I.

Speaking in Baltimore Tuesday night, Nixon moved to woo what he described as Democratic moderates who back Eisenhower foreign policies. He singled out for special mention Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Nixon said he distinguishes between Democrats of the Johnson type and "the leadership which presently controls the Democratic National Committee, which is radical in its approach to economic problems and . . . bitterly partisan in its criticism of the Eisenhower foreign policy."

trict to concentrate their efforts in the fields for which they have been specially trained. The result will be a better teaching curriculum which will best fit the boys and girls for business, industry, farm home or college.

The bond issue will mature in 20 years. The 3.67 mills asked will be a tax of $3.67 per $1,000 of taxable property. The levy can be used only for paying off the bonds and interest each year.

If a more favorable interest is obtained or if the addition of the Kingston - Union and Clearcreek Twp. (Stoutsville) districts result in a larger net tax yield, then the levy will be lowered.

The costs are divided as follows: purchase of site and roadway, $19,500; high school building, $740,500; improvements at Washington Twp., $80,000, and high school equipment and site development, $100,000.

Wilson stated that from the standpoint of good business sense, now is the best time to build a high school. He said, "Building costs are going up, interest rates are rising. Two years from now—or three or five — a satisfactory building may cost far more than it will next year."

The board wishes to emphasize that although a high school building is needed, the new 3-mill and 2-mill renewal for a current operating levy is also vitally necessary.

THE CURRENT operating levy for the past year was 9-mills. The average operating levy in Ohio during the 1957-58 school year was 14.46 mills.

The Logan Elm board feels that rising costs make it necessary to ask for a total operating levy of 12 mills to adequately carry on its present educational program.

The failure of this levy can only result in a serious curtailment of the Logan Elm school district program. The need for increased operating revenue is not peculiar to the Logan Elm district.

The board gives nearby examples of Franklin County districts asking for new operating levies. They are Whitehall Local, 4-mills; South - Western, 3-mills plus a renewal of 3-mills;

Worthington, 5-mills, plus renewal of 3-mills; Hamilton Local, 4-mills, and Madison Local, 3-mills, plus renewal of 2-mills.

Record Mid-Term Vote Total Is Expected in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official and unofficial estimates today placed the nation's eligible voters for the Nov. 4 elections at 76,145,600. This is a record for a mid-term election.

Despite scattered reports of voter apathy, the same sources estimated the probable total vote in the 48 states at 48,131,226, including the 284,226 already officially recorded for Senate candidates in Maine Sept. 8. This also would be the highest for any non-presidential year.

The Associated Press tabulation is based on estimates gathered from state officials, party chairmen and in a few instances from veteran political writers.

It showed a gain of 1,266,454 qualified voters over the record established in the last midterm election in 1954. However, it is about four million under the total of eligibles for the 1956 presidential election.

The estimated vote represents an increase of 3,683,730 over the previous midterm highest vote in 1954. That total of 44,447,496 was reached by adding the top vote in each state whether for senator, governor or combined House vote.

The 1954 official vote for representatives was 42,582,927, including 22,566,386 for Democratic candidates and 20,016,809 for Republicans. The remainder went to independent and small party candidates. The largest presidential vote was more than 62 million in 1956.

The estimate of 76,145,600 eligibles for this year compares with a Census Bureau estimate of 104,600,000 "potential" voters for the coming election (civilians 21 years of age and over; 18 and over in Georgia and Kentucky). The potential vote has gained 4,377,000 over 1954.

Twenty-seven states show gains over 1954 in the estimated number of persons who have registered, paid poll taxes, or otherwise have met state voting requirements for the elections Nov. 4. The biggest gains are in California, 867,000, and Iowa and North Carolina, 200,000 each.

Nine states have qualified fewer voters than in 1954, although in some instances election officials said their estimates four years ago were too high. The nine states: Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Estimated registrations for 12 states remained about the same as 1954.

States showing gains of 200,000 or more in estimated vote, over 1954's combined House vote, are

Anti-Peddler Bill Approved

Council Names Assessment Board

A law prohibiting soliciting, peddling and hawking on the streets of Circleville was passed last night by City Council in a short session.

The bill, amended on a suggestion by Councilman Boyd Horn, provides penalties of $10 to $100 and a six months jail term for all who hawk, solicit and peddle on the streets or public property, all who have not met all state, federal and local regulations as to health and all who call on private property owners without an invitation.

In other action the solons named Wallace Crist, George C. Barnes and Paul Johnson as three disinterested citizens to set assessments for Sewer District No. 1 property owners, and gave Service Director Carl Radcliff authority to advertise for bids on a road grader.

Council referred to the service director an appeal by Ernie Weiler and Chester Blue, a request for paving on Sunshine St.

The anti-peddler bill defines hawkers and peddlers as all persons who sell or offer for sale any goods, wares, merchandise, produce or supplies on the streets by outcry, or by attracting attention by exposing their goods in a public place, or by placards, labels or signals.

A solicitor is anyone who travels from place to place or from house to house about the city soliciting orders for goods by retail for future delivery.

WCH Funeral Director Dies

Ansel Kirkpatrick, 67, Heart Victim

Services for Ansel W. Kirkpatrick, 67, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C. H. which he had operated since 1948 in association with his sons.

Mr. Kirkpatrick died at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday of a heart attack. He had been in failing health for a year, but death, which came on the 10th anniversary of his purchase of the funeral home from the late Stanley Chitty, was unexpected.

He was seated on a porch at his residence adjoining the funeral home talking with associates, when he became ill. He was dead before a physician arrived.

A native of New Holland, Mr Kirkpatrick founded the Kirkpatreck Funeral Home and Kirk's Furniture Store in that village 45 years ago. They are still being operated by members of the family.

A licensed funeral director and embalmer since 1913, Mr. Kirkpatrick was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Order of The Eastern Star at New Holland; Scottish Rite and Shrine organizations in Columbus; the Methodist Church of New Holland; and the Elks Lodge and Rotary Club in Washington C. H.

HE WAS A charter member of the Washington Country Club and was affiliated with the Ohio Funeral Directors Assn.

He is survived by his wife, Erma; three sons, Eddie, of Washington C. H. and Richard and Ansel Jr., New Holland; nine grandchildren; two brothers, Joseph, of New Holland, and McKinley, Washington C. H.; a sister, Mrs. Laurel Timmons, Wilmington.

The Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will conduct the services. The body will be placed in the family mausoleum in New Holland.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning Wednesday evening.

Milk Programs Get $33,688

"The school lunch program and special milk program have resolved into big business as far as the Pickaway County school system is concerned," it was stated today by George McDowell, superintendent of the county school system.

During the 1957-58 school year, Pickaway County received $33,688.93 toward the two programs. The school lunch fund received $23,331.02 and the special milk program was given $10,357.91. This money toward the two funds was handed out by the federal government.

The school lunch fund amounted to $4,843.32 for the Logan Elm School District, $5,414.55 for Teays Valley and $5,397.20 for Westfall. The Circleville school system, including Wayne Twp., receied $6,600.48 toward school lunches and New Holland, now of Fayette County, was given $1,075.47.

The special milk fund amounted to $2,041.76 for Logan Elm, $3,540.65 for Teays Valley and $3,814.64 for Westfall. Circleville and Wayne Twp. received $960.87.

TOTAL FEDERAL money received by Logan Elm was $6,885.08; Teays Valley, $8,955.19; Westfall, $9,211.84, Circleville and Wayne Twp., $7,561.35, and New Holland, $1,075.47.

With the assistance of this federal money, the county, district and city boards of education desire to break even on the school lunch and milk programs.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY OF ...
Better Health Through Knowledge
• Stage Fright
• Hard Water
• Thumbsucking

Q. "This sounds silly but when I am called on to talk before a group of people my mouth gets so dry I can hardly speak. Can you offer a suggestion?" —A Colorado reader.
A. This is a common symptom of stage fright. There is nothing medically wrong so there would be no medical cure. Continue making speeches before groups and you'll gradually become more at ease.
Q. "Why does hard water roughen the skin?"—E.B.
A. The hardness of water is due to dissolved chemicals, some of which combine with soap to form an insoluble substance which sticks to the skin. The film is responsible for the rough feeling of the skin.
Q. "My baby has started sucking his thumb. What should I do?"—A worried mother.
A. Don't get too upset. The thumbsucking baby was once considered a happy baby. Then germs were discovered so, of course, the word went out that babies should not put their fingers in their mouths. Dentists spoke up against thumbsucking because it supposedly caused crooked teeth. The coup de grace came when psychologists connected thumbsucking with sex. All of these notions have largely been disproved. Germs get into the body in many ways, the least important of which is by thumbsucking. Many dentists say that if thumbsucking stops before age 6, any harm done to the mouth or teeth will usually correct itself.

Ohio Lawyer Is Accused In Kidnaping

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York magistrate has ordered a Canton, Ohio, lawyer held to the grand jury on kidnaping charges.

The lawyer, Louis Martinez, 34, of (336 Rice Ave.) Canton, is accused of complicity in the kidnaping of Sidney Naubauer, 38, a Farmingdale, N. J., attorney.

Similar charges against a young student follower of Cuban revolutionist Fidel Castro were dismissed Tuesday in Felony Court by Magistrate Joseph Martinis. He is Joaquin Gomez, 24, an architecture student at Pratt Institute and secretary of a pro-Castro club.

Naubauer told police he was abducted at gunpoint Thursday and taken to a Bronx apartment. Last Saturday he managed to escape, Naubauer said, after seizing a revolver while his guards were asleep.

He said Cuban revolutionists, who had contracted to purchase guns and medical supplies from Naubauer's partner, Peter Leblavic, Montclair, N. J., exporter, had accused Leblavic of failing to produce the promised arms after getting a down payment.

He was renewing—in sharper words — his contention that he could have had agreement on the same term years earlier.

Truman said he didn't do it because he knew the result would be to free Communist forces to apply pressures elsewhere.

Nixon, whose stumping has taken him across the country, was bound for New England today, with stops scheduled in Hartford, Conn., Burlington, Vt., and Providence, R.I.

Speaking in Baltimore Tuesday night, Nixon moved to woo what he described as Democratic moderates who back Eisenhower foreign policies. He singled out for special mention Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Nixon said he distinguishes between Democrats of the Johnson type and "the leadership which presently controls the Democratic National Committee, which is radical in its approach to economic problems and . . . bitterly partisan in its criticism of the Eisenhower foreign policy."

trict to concentrate their efforts in the fields for which they have been specially trained. The result will be a better teaching curriculum which will best fit the boys and girls for business, industry, farm home or college.

The bond issue will mature in 20 years. The 3.67 mills asked will be a tax of $3.67 per $1,000 of taxable property. The levy can be used only for paying off the bonds and interest each year.

If a more favorable interest is obtained or if the addition of the Kingston - Union and Clearcreek Twp. (Stoutsville) districts result in a larger net tax yield, then the levy will be lowered.

The costs are divided as follows: purchase of site and roadway, $19,500; high school building, $740,500; improvements at Washington Twp., $80,000, and high school equipment and site development, $100,000.

Wilson stated that from the standpoint of good business sense, now is the best time to build a high school. He said, "Building costs are going up, interest rates are rising. Two years from now—or three or five — a satisfactory building may cost far more than it will next year."

The board wishes to emphasize that although a high school building is needed, the new 3-mill and 2-mill renewal for a current operating levy is also vitally necessary.

* * *

THE CURRENT operating levy for the past year was 9-mills. The average operating levy in Ohio during the 1957-58 school year was 14.46 mills.

The Logan Elm board feels that rising costs make it necessary to ask for a total operating levy of 12 mills to adequately carry on its present educational program.

The failure of this levy can only result in a serious curtailment of the Logan Elm school district program. The need for increased operating revenue is not peculiar to the Logan Elm district.

The board gives nearby examples of Franklin County districts asking for new operating levies. They are Whitehall Local, 4-mills; South Western, 3-mills plus a renewal of 3-mills;

Worthington, 5-mills, plus renewal of 3-mills; Hamilton Local, 4-mills, and Madison Local, 3-mills, plus renewal of 2-mills.

Record Mid-Term Vote Total Is Expected in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official and unofficial estimates today placed the nation's eligible voters for the Nov. 4 elections at 76,145,600. This is a record for a mid-term election.

Despite scattered reports of voter apathy, the same sources estimated the probable total vote in the 48 states at 48,131,226, including the 284,226 already officially recorded for Senate candidates in Maine Sept. 8. This also would be the highest for any non-presidential year.

The Associated Press tabulation is based on estimates gathered from state officials, party chairmen and in a few instances from veteran political writers.

It showed a gain of 1,266,454 qualified voters over the record established in the last midterm election in 1954. However, it is about four million under the total of eligibles for the 1956 presidential election.

The estimated vote represents an increase of 3,683,730 over the previous midterm highest vote in 1954. That total of 44,447,496 was reached by adding the top vote in each state whether for senator, governor or combined House vote.

The 1954 official vote for representatives was 42,582,927, including 22,566,386 for Democratic candidates and 20,016,809 for Republicans. The remainder went to independent and small party candidates. The largest presidential vote was more than 62 million in 1956.

The estimate of 76,145,600 eligibles for this year compares with a Census Bureau estimate of 104,600,000 "potential" voters for the coming election (civilians 21 years of age and over; 18 and over in Georgia and Kentucky). The potential vote has gained 4,377,000 over 1954.

Twenty-seven states show gains over 1954 in the estimated number of persons who have registered, paid poll taxes, or otherwise have met state voting requirements for the elections Nov. 4. The biggest gains are in California, 867,000, and Iowa and North Carolina, 200,000 each.

Nine states have qualified fewer voters than in 1954, although in some instances election officials said their estimates four years ago were too high. The nine states: Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Estimated registrations for 12 states remained about the same as 1954.

States showing gains of 200,000 or more in estimated vote, over 1954's combined House vote, are

Anti-Peddler Bill Approved

Council Names Assessment Board

A law prohibiting soliciting, peddling and hawking on the streets of Circleville was passed last night by City Council in a short session.

The bill, amended on a suggestion by Councilman Boyd Horn, provides penalties of $10 to $100 and a six months jail term for all who hawk, solicit and peddle on the streets or public property, all who have not met all state, federal and local regulations as to health and all who call on private property owners without an invitation.

In other action the solons named Wallace Crist, George C. Barnes and Paul Johnson as three disinterested citizens to set assessments for Sewer District No. 1 property owners, and gave Service Director Carl Radcliff authority to advertise for bids on a road grader.

Council referred to the service director an appeal by Ernie Weiler and Chester Blue, a request for paving on Sunshine St.

The anti-peddler bill defines hawkers and peddlers as all persons who sell or offer for sale any goods, wares, merchandise, produce or supplies on the streets by outcry, or by attracting attention by exposing their goods in a public place, or by placards, labels or signals.

A solicitor is anyone who travels from place to place or from house to house about the city soliciting orders for goods by retail for future delivery.

WCH Funeral Director Dies

Ansel Kirkpatrick, 67, Heart Victim

Services for Ansel W. Kirkpatrick, 67, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C. H. which he had operated since 1948 in association with his sons.

Mr. Kirkpatrick died at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday of a heart attack. He had been in failing health for a year, but death, which came on the 10th anniversary of his purchase of the funeral home from the late Stanley Chitty, was unexpected.

He was seated on a porch at his residence adjoining the funeral home talking with associates, when he became ill. He was dead before a physician arrived.

A native of New Holland, Mr Kirkpatrick founded the Kirkpatreck Funeral Home and Kirk's Furniture Store in that village 45 years ago. They are still being operated by members of the family.

A licensed funeral director and embalmer since 1913, Mr. Kirkpatrick was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Order of The Eastern Star at New Holland; Scottish Rite and Shrine organizations in Columbus; the Methodist Church of New Holland; and the Elks Lodge and Rotary Club in Washington C. H.

* * *

HE WAS A charter member of the Washington Country Club and was affiliated with the Ohio Funeral Directors Assn.

He is survived by his wife, Erma; three sons, Eddie, of Washington C. H. and Richard and Ansel Jr., New Holland; nine grandchildren; two brothers, Joseph, of New Holland, and McKinley, Washington C. H.; a sister, Mrs. Laurel Timmons, Wilmington.

The Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will conduct the services. The body will be placed in the family mausoleum in New Holland.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning Wednesday evening.

Milk Programs Get $33,688

"The school lunch program and special milk program have resolved into big business as far as the Pickaway County school system is concerned," it was stated today by George McDowell, superintendent of the county school system.

During the 1957-58 school year, Pickaway County received $33,688.93 toward the two programs. The school lunch fund received $23,331.02 and the special milk program was given $10,357.91. This money toward the two funds was handed out by the federal government.

The school lunch fund amounted to $4,843.32 for the Logan Elm School District, $5,414.55 for Teays Valley and $5,397.20 for Westfall. The Circleville school system, including Wayne Twp., receied $6,600.48 toward school lunches and New Holland, now of Fayette County, was given $1,075.47.

The special milk fund amounted to $2,041.76 for Logan Elm, $3,540.65 for Teays Valley and $3,814.64 for Westfall. Circleville and Wayne Twp. received $960.87.

TOTAL FEDERAL money received by Logan Elm was $6,885.08; Teays Valley, $8,955.19; Westfall, $9,211.84, Circleville and Wayne Twp., $7,561.35, and New Holland, $1,075.47.

With the assistance of this federal money, the county, district and city boards of education desire to break even on the school lunch and milk programs.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT
Better Health Through Knowledge
• Stage Fright
• Hard Water
• Thumbsucking

Q. "This sounds silly but when I am called on to talk before a group of people my mouth gets so dry I can hardly speak. Can you offer a suggestion?" —A Colorado reader.

A. This is a common symptom of stage fright. There is nothing medically wrong so there would be no medical cure. Continue making speeches before groups and you'll gradually become more at ease.

Q. "Why does hard water roughen the skin?"—B.B.

A. The hardness of water is due to dissolved chemicals, some of which combine with soap to form an insoluble substance which sticks to the skin. The film is responsible for the rough feeling of the skin.

Q. "My baby has started sucking his thumb. What should I do?"—A worried mother.

A. Don't get too upset. The thumbsucking baby was once considered a happy baby. Then germs were discovered so, of course, the word went out that babies should not put their fingers in their mouths. Dentists spoke up against thumbsucking because it supposedly caused crooked teeth. The coup de grace came when psychologists connected thumbsucking with sex. All of these notions have largely been disproved. Germs get into the body in many ways, the least important of which is by thumbsucking. Many dentists say that if thumbsucking stops before age 6, any harm done to the mouth or teeth will usually correct itself.

A Look at Russia Today

Pie Is Still in the Sky For Majority of Soviets

By ROY ESSOYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Forty-one years after the Russian Revolution the pie is still in the sky for 99 per cent of the Soviet people.

The way the Russians feel about it is illustrated by one of their anecdotes:

One Soviet citizen says things are going to be great—every Russian will have a private jet plane by 1960.

"What do I want a jet for?" a friend asks.

"Don't be a fool," the first man says. "When Pravda reports there are eggs in Vladivostok you jump into your jet and go to Vladivostok."

The Russians have made impressive strides in housing and consumer goods since Stalin died.

Drive into Moscow from any direction and your view is blocked by uninspiring but massive construction projects. And GUM, the biggest department store, has a window full of high-heeled shoes.

But 90 per cent of Moscow's residents haven't a hope of getting a new apartment in the next few years. Most live one family to a room, sharing a four-burner gas stove and bathroom with three or four other families. And it takes months of waiting to buy an ordinary attractive pair of shoes let alone high heels.

On the surface, Moscow looks a great deal better than it did three years ago. There are more goods. Clothes are still shapeless and drab. But last year the government put out a neat raglan-sleeve raincoat in tan and navy blue. It has improved the street appearance of the Soviet male as nothing else in 41 years.

Even Warsaw is a riot of color and revelry compared with Moscow.

Everything's crowded in Moscow. The streets are a sea of gray humanity. It's a fight to get into the stores. The restaurants are nearly always crowded. People hover outside every theater, movie, opera house and sports stadium cadging tickets. Tickets to most amusements are allotted by party or trade union organization. The public gets the leavings.

There are lines for nearly everything in Moscow, from buses to streetcars to the pop and ice cream vendor on the corner. In the better stocked grocery stores the lines are three deep.

Once at GUM I saw a line of several hundred people. I asked women near the end what they were waiting for. They weren't too sure. It turned out to be cheap Chinese tablecloths. The line starts forming at dawn, two or three hours before the store opens.

There aren't enough stores, theaters or stadiums to go around. As long as the government owns them all, it would be poor business to open more to compete with one another.

Rent runs less than 5 per cent of income, or 30 to 60 rubles. The ruble is worth 10 cents at the tourist rate.

Medical care is free, if you can spend days waiting your turn at a state clinics, or work your way through the cots that line corridors of the average hospital.

Vacations at state sanatoria are free or cut rate if you have a good job, work hard or have influence.

The bulk of the Soviet family budget goes on food. Most Russian families, with everyone working, have money to spare.

They can't afford to buy anything as luxurious as clothes regularly, so they spend it on amusements, or more food. Every year or so they splurge on a coat for Ivan or a pair of shoes for Galina.

The Soviet Union has produced a generation of cynics, and the most cynical are its youth.

An American in Moscow soon finds that 40 years of hothouse breeding has not created an unthinking robot and stifled human curiosity, skepticism or ideals.

But this may still turn out to be a discouraging discovery.

The cynicism of youth is no direct threat to the regime. It is not of the sort that moves mountains.

Most young Russians have a consuming curiosity about the world outside, especially the United States.

They don't believe most of what they're told—that's propaganda, and they've built up an immunity to propaganda—but they have little to fill the holes.

They pick up the Voice of America—it comes booming out of tenement windows in Moscow, Leningrad and Tiflis—and they buttonhole tourists for scraps of information.

Moscow radio drones out its messages of hate, dressed in words of peace, but Russians you talk to couldn't care less. They're far more interested in the price of shoes in New York.

Unquestionably, many young Russians accept the party line—hook and sinker. They are the 10 per cent or so who end up with the good education and know which side of their bread gets the butter. Others, at the other end of the social spectrum, are too busy earning their bread to think too hard, but not too busy to bear resentment.

2 Area Towns Affected by Gasco Request

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Fuel Gas Co.'s request for a $2,923,600 yearly rate increase applies only to its wholesale customers and not its retail consumers, the company said today.

The increase, amounting to a 9.7 per cent hike above existing wholesale rates, was requested in an application filed with the Federal Power Commission Friday.

If the increase is approved, the company said, it will boost rates to 28 wholesale customers in Ohio. The company said its wholesale customers are other utility firms or municipalities that sell gas at retail rates to industrial, residential and commercial customers.

The wholesale rate increase would have no effect on Ohio Fuel's retail customers in some 400 Ohio cities, the company said. Those rates are established by ordinances and cannot be changed until the ordinances expire.

Ohio Fuel sells wholesale natural gas to the municipalities of Albany, Arlington, Bellefontaine, Cincinnati, Dayton, Delaware, Lancaster, Syracuse, Tarlton, Verona, Waterville, Lima and Williamsport. The other wholesale customers are utility firms that operate in various sections of the state.

Truman Sure His Democrats Not Radicals

It belongs to the Republicans, he added.

Truman, taking his morning stoll while on a visit here, was asked to comment on President Eisenhower's statement Monday night that the Democratic party is dominated by "political radicals."

"Radical party?" Truman said laughingly to reporters accompanying him. "We inherited that word from the Republicans. The Democratic party never had anything in its title throughout its history.

"Let me give you a bit of history. It was in 1860 or about 1865 that Thad Stevens (Thaddeus Stevens), who was a congressman from Pennsylvania and head of the Radical Republicans, caused the impeachment of Andrew Johnson.

"No, radical is not a Democratic term. It is a Republican term."

As for Eisenhower's assertion that the Democratic party is suffering from "political schizophrenia," with Northern and Southern wings differing on important issues, Truman said: "It's another way of avoiding the issues."

Sinatra Is Linked To British 'Lady'

LONDON (AP)—Frank Sinatra spent the past two days going steady with beautiful American-born Lady Beatty, and London newspapers suggested today a wedding is coming up.

"Sinatra will wed Lady Beatty," proclaimed The Daily Mail. It said the 36-year-old beauty's friends indicated that "the only questions to be answered were when and where."

Lady Beatty was divorced from William O'Connor of California in 1949. Earl Beatty, son of the British naval hero of World War I, divorced her last June, charging adultery with a man identified only as George Henry Lane.

Philanthropy on Increase

Good times and bad, philanthropy continues to be a major American enterprise, as witness the $7 billion record such gifts are expected to set this year.

Donations have been maintained at consistently high levels. Last year they reached $6.7 billion and the year before $6.5 billion.

Corporations are still the principal donors. The nature of their activities, however, has been shifting. In part due to Soviet advances in education, that field is winning more and more corporate attention.

According to the Council for Financial Aid to Education, 34 per cent of corporate gifts are for educational purposes. Ten years ago, the level was 21 per cent. This increase appears to have been at the expense of welfare agencies.

While total contributions from all sources continue to rise, there has been no proportionate increase in the per capita rate of gift giving. This remains fairly steady at about 2 per cent.

Americans as a group maintain a higher rate of spending on cigarettes, liquor and cosmetics—due in part at least to the fact that these items are heavily taxed. Where philantropy is concerned, however, the needs are ever growing — but so, too, are the benefits that accrue to all.

Get Away from It All at Sea

By Hal Boyle

ABOARD THE S.S. BRASIL AT SEA (AP)—You don't have to ride a rocket into outer space today to "get away from it all."

The tensions of ordinary life ashore begin to disappear as soon as the ship pulls away from the pier. You fret briefly over whether you brought the right kind of clothes. You are a bit uneasy over whether you'll get a good seat in the dining room, or a deck chair in the right location.

But in another day all these minor doubts disappear. You find out that as long as you dress sensibly and don't try to storm the dining room in a Bikini, it makes little real difference what you wear or where you sit.

The sea breeze is like a benediction, cleansing your mind and soul of its accumulated landgrime and pettiness of thought and action.

The endless immensity of wave and sky has a curious double effect on you. It sobers you with a realization of how small a thing man is physically in comparison with the giant forces of nature. At the same time it lifts you spiritually, and you sense that in some wonderful way you are an eternal part of something larger than yourself. It is as if the sea had become a church.

This new 25 million dollar Moore-McCormack vessel, the largest ever built for the South American trade, is a good example of why hundreds of thousands of travelers still prefer to sail the ocean rather than skip over it by plane. They cling to the theory that the real enjoyment of a journey lies in the going—not just the getting there.

So this two-block-long vessel was designed to wall out worries and wall in as many comforts as possible. The Brasil is a miniature metropolis, air-conditioned throughout—so you can pick your own climate.

It has all-outside cabins with piped in music. It has a library, a movie with the latest Hollywood films, a gymnasium, a card room, a night club, a beauty parlor, a barber shop, a hospital and rooms in which you can learn the cha-cha or study a foreign language. It carries two ministers.

There is something to appeal to all members of the family. There are two swimming pools, one for adults, one for children. The kids have a special playroom and a wired in play space on deck with a slide and sand box. The teenagers also have their own entertainment room, equipped with a juke box and a soda fountain.

A room that pleasantly surprised many of the grownup passengers is a bar lounge in which a rye and water costs 20 cents, bourbon on the rocks 25 cents, scotch and soda 30 cents. Imported beer costs 30 cents a bottle.

"Everybody is drinking as if he were afraid it would go out of style," said one wag, pointing out that it was inevitable since a chocolate nut sundae cost 35 cents —"and nobody can afford ice cream."

But after becoming convinced the ship wouldn't run dry, even the serious drinkers have settled down to their normal intake.

Southward we plough under serene skies by day, through tropical waters phosphorescent by night. Nobody troubles about the hydrogen bomb, there are no political speeches to listen to, and who misses television when he can look up at the stars?

There is a phone in the room, but it doesn't ring. There are no traffic jams, no parking problems, no trains to catch, and to the best of my knowledge no one aboard ship has been hit by a taxicab.

Peace in a wide, wide sea—it's wonderful. Sometimes I wonder how life is going with all the poor folks tied to the land.

But don't call to tell me. I'll call you.

Heat Will Aid Arthritis

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Physical therapy is an important adjunct to medical treatment of rheumatoid arthritis. But to be effective, physical therapy must be carried out daily, or as frequently as directed by the physician who ordered it.

Heat, as I have previously explained, helps relax the muscles and soothes painful joints. Most doctors, I am sure, would recommend it for patients with rheumatoid arthritis.

While I cannot prescribe for individual cases, of course, I think it advisable for all of you who have a victim of this disease in the home to know how to apply heat.

I'll discuss some of the various methods of doing this, but I want to emphasize that none of them should be employed without specific instructions from your physician. If and when he does order it, maybe the following instructions will make it a little easier for you to apply.

Hot packs are a relatively simple and effective way of heating just about any portion of the body. Woolen cloths probably are best. Soak them thoroughly in water heated to about 120 degrees and then wring them out. Permit them to remain over the affected joints for 10 minutes or so and then dunk them again.

You can use hot packs once or twice a day from half an hour to 45 minutes each time.

Contrast baths are useful for stricken hands of feet. Heat some water until it is about 110 degrees. Beside the pot or pan containing this water, place another holding cold water of about 65 degrees.

Plunge hands or feet into the hot water and hold them there for 10 minutes. Then, place them in the cold water for one minute. Next, whisk them back to the hot water again, for four minutes this time, and then back to the cold water for one minute again.

You can keep up this alternating procedure for half an hour, but always remember to end it with your hands in the hot water. If the water is too hot or too cold for comfort, you can cool or warm it a bit.

This contrast bath can be performed once or twice a day.

Question and Answer

A. A diabetic diet varies in kind and amount with each patient.

In general, the daily diet should include a generous supply of vegetables, an egg, a dish of cereal, fruit, a pint or more of milk, a moderate amount of meat, fish, or cheese, slice of bread and a little butter.

Pope's Doctor Facing Probe By Medics

ROME (AP)—The Rome Medical Assn. will conduct a formal inquiry to determine if the personal physician of Pope Pius XII violated his professional obligations by selling articles describing the pontiff's last illness and death agonies.

The inquiry on Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, the Pope's personal physician for 19 years, will take about three weeks. A finding of guilty could result in a reprimand, suspension for a time or even ouster from the medical profession.

The association's governing council voted the inquiry at an urgent meeting to consider a storm of public demands that Galeazzi-Lisi be disciplined.

The Roman Catholic Church's College of Cardinals had earlier accepted Galeazzi-Lisi's resignation as Vatican Health Services director.

Galeazzi-Lisi has contended that his articles betrayed no professional secrets because his obligation of secrecy ended with his patient's death. He attributed the criticism to jealousy of doctors who were not called to treat the Pope before he died Oct. 9.

Bank Thief Plans Repayment of Cash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A man who stole $2,000 from the Mission District Branch of the Hibernia Bank Aug. 15 returned half of it a week later and promised the rest in installments, it was disclosed Monday.

After the FBI and bank officials had questioned a teller about the disappearance of 100 $20 bills, the bank received an anonymous letter containing 50 of the bills.

The writer explained that he had gone into the bank for a loan of $1,000 but took the bundle of bills when the teller's attention was distracted.

Since he had intended to borrow only half the amount, he sending the other half b wrote, and would repay the rest in installments as soon as he could.

I meet New York Republicans who say that they will not vote for Nelson Rockefeller; I meet Democrats who will not vote for Averell Harriman. The Republicans who will not vote for Rockefeller object to him because they say he is a New Deal Liberal; the Democrats who will not vote for Harriman are annoyed with his treatment of Jim Farley.

But there is something more than that and it may become explosive in 1960. It is a feeling that parties no longer mean anything and that candidates only want to be elected and will say anything and do anything with that end in view. It is as though all were well with the world and that there is nothing to talk about.

But actually there is very much to talk about. Senator Barry Goldwater is risking his political life in Arizona, talking about an important issue, the right-to-work; Senator William Knowland is risking a great career in California over the same issue. It is something to debate.

Certainly when any group develops an excess of power in a Republic, the people sooner or later, in anger, tear them down from their exalted positions. That is what happened to the early industrialists who formed monopolies; that happened to the early railroad magnates who gave rebates; that happened to some groups of American bankers who became predatory and played ducks and drakes with other peoples' money. Sooner or later that will happen to those labor leaders who not only use economic but political weapons to enrich themselves and fortify their power.

And Barry Goldwater and William Knowland serve as an advance guard in this particular battle, just as in 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt fought Prohibition and was elected on that issue.

A Republic is a form of government in which the people express a choice both as to the policies and personnel of government. That is not true in a monarchy or an oligarchy or in a dictatorship. It is only true in a Republic. The people's choice may not always be the right one, as history shows, but, at any rate, no self-appointed satrap rules by force. There is an opportunity for rejection. This nature of the Republic, General de Gaulle has so amply demonstrated in recent months, and particularly in extending the right of choice to colonial France.

The right of choice presupposes some interest and intelligence, some enthusiasm, some excitement. Choice must be conscious, for choice involves decision; it involves a positive action. When the citizen goes to the polls to express his right of choice in an election, he expresses a positive act of citizenship based upon an intelligent understanding of what he is doing. At any rate, that is expected of the voter.

When, however, the voter is satisfied with a handshake, with a smirk on television, with ghost-written gibberish, then he sacrifices his fundamental right.

One of the curses of present society is the dislike for controversy. It will be said of a man, "he is a controversial character," by which is meant that he thinks and that he says what he thinks and often does what he thinks is right. Most persons, these days, eschew the controversial. They conform and come out where they started, blah personalities. We are not producing Tom Paines or Abraham Lincolns in American politics these days. It is not fashionable.

So what we come to in a campaign such as we are experiencing in ew York State is that two very gentle persons speak of each other in delcet tones. It is not good enough to sustain the republican form of government.

One of the most serious problems in New York is the combination of racketeers and Communists in restraint of trade on the waterfront. This can, in time, ruin the City of New York. It would be an excellent campaign point. But with regard to it both candidates are silent. Another interesting point that the Republicans might pick up to assail the Democrats with, is the corrupt system of municipal inspection of buildings and the Democrats might defend themselves.

Thus far, except for Vice President Nixon, the Republicans do not attack and the Democrats do not defend. Nobody says anything and nobody cares about anything. They are running but where to and what for must be a puzzle to the candidates. The voters do not know either.

Philanthropy on Increase

Good times and bad, philanthropy continues to be a major American enterprise, as witness the $7 billion record such gifts are expected to set this year.

Donations have been maintained at consistently high levels. Last year they reached $6.7 billion and the year before $6.5 billion.

Corporations are still the principal donors. The nature of their activities, however, has been shifting. In part due to Soviet advances in education, that field is winning more and more corporate attention.

According to the Council for Financial Aid to Education, 34 per cent of corporate gifts are for educational purposes. Ten years ago, the level was 21 per cent. This increase appears to have been at the expense of welfare agencies.

While total contributions from all sources continue to rise, there has been no proportionate increase in the per capita rate of gift giving. This remains fairly steady at about 2 per cent.

Americans as a group maintain a higher rate of spending on cigarettes, liquor and cosmetics—due in part at least to the fact that these items are heavily taxed. Where philantropy is concerned, however, the needs are ever growing — but so, too, are the benefits that accrue to all.

Get Away from It All at Sea

By Hal Boyle

ABOARD THE S.S. BRASIL AT SEA (AP)—You don't have to ride a rocket into outer space today to "get away from it all."

The tensions of ordinary life ashore begin to disappear as soon as the ship pulls away from the pier. You fret briefly over whether you brought the right kind of clothes. You are a bit uneasy over whether you'll get a good seat in the dining room, or a deck chair in the right location.

But in another day all these minor doubts disappear. You find out that as long as you dress sensibly and don't try to storm the dining room in a Bikini, it makes little real difference what you wear or where you sit.

The sea breeze is like a benediction, cleansing your mind and soul of its accumulated landgrime and pettiness of thought and action.

The endless immensity of wave and sky has a curious double effect on you. It sobers you with a realization of how small a thing man is physically in comparison with the giant forces of nature. At the same time it lifts you spiritually, and you sense that in some wonderful way you are an eternal part of something larger than yourself. It is as if the sea had become a church.

This new 25 million dollar Moore-McCormack vessel, the largest ever built for the South American trade, is a good example of why hundreds of thousands of travelers still prefer to sail the ocean rather than skip over it by plane. They cling to the theory that the real enjoyment of a journey lies in the going—not just the getting there.

So this two-block-long vessel was designed to wall out worries and wall in as many comforts as possible. The Brasil is a miniature metropolis, air-conditioned throughout—so you can pick your own climate.

It has all-outside cabins with piped in music. It has a library, a movie with the latest Hollywood films, a gymnasium, a card room, a night club, a beauty parlor, a barber shop, a hospital and rooms in which you can learn the cha-cha or study a foreign language. It carries two ministers.

There is something to appeal to all members of the family. There are two swimming pools, one for adults, one for children. The kids have a special playroom and a wired in play space on deck with a slide and sand box. The teenagers also have their own entertainment room, equipped with a juke box and a soda fountain.

A room that pleasantly surprised many of the grownup passengers is a bar lounge in which a rye and water costs 20 cents, bourbon on the rocks 25 cents, scotch and soda 30 cents. Imported beer costs 30 cents a bottle.

"Everybody is drinking as if he were afraid it would go out of style," said one wag, pointing out that it was inevitable since a chocolate nut sundae cost 35 cents —"and nobody can afford ice cream."

But after becoming convinced the ship wouldn't run dry, even the serious drinkers have settled down to their normal intake.

Southward we plough under serene skies by day, through tropical waters phosphorescent by night. Nobody troubles about the hydrogen bomb, there are no political speeches to listen to, and who misses television when he can look up at the stars?

There is a phone in the room, but it doesn't ring. There are no traffic jams, no parking problems, no trains to catch, and to the best of my knowledge no one aboard ship has been hit by a taxicab.

Peace in a wide, wide sea—it's wonderful. Sometimes I wonder how life is going with all the poor folks tied to the land.

But don't call to tell me. I'll call you.

Heat Will Aid Arthritis

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Physical therapy is an important adjunct to medical treatment of rheumatoid arthritis. But to be effective, physical therapy must be carried out daily, or as frequently as directed by the physician who ordered it.

Heat, as I have previously explained, helps relax the muscles and soothes painful joints. Most doctors, I am sure, would recommend it for patients with rheumatoid arthritis.

While I cannot prescribe for individual cases, of course, I think it advisable for all of you who have a victim of this disease in the home to know how to apply heat.

I'll discuss some of the various methods of doing this, but I want to emphasize that none of them should be employed without specific instructions from your physician. If and when he does order it, maybe the following instructions will make it a little easier for you to apply.

Hot packs are a relatively simple and effective way of heating just about any portion of the body. Woolen cloths probably are best. Soak them thoroughly in water heated to about 120 degrees and then wring them out. Permit them to remain over the affected joints for 10 minutes or so and then dunk them again.

You can use hot packs once or twice a day from half an hour to 45 minutes each time.

Contrast baths are useful for stricken hands of feet. Heat some water until it is about 110 degrees. Beside the pot or pan containing this water, place another holding cold water of about 65 degrees.

Plunge hands or feet into the hot water and hold them there for 10 minutes. Then, place them in the cold water for one minute. Next, whisk them back to the hot water again, for four minutes this time. and then back to the cold water for one minute again.

You can keep up this alternating procedure for half an hour, but always remember to end it with your hands in the hot water. If the water is too hot or too cold for comfort, you can cool or warm it a bit.

This contrast bath can be performed once or twice a day.

Question and Answer

A. A diabetic diet varies in kind and amount with each patient.

In general, the daily diet should include a generous supply of vegetables, an egg, a dish of cereal, fruit, a pint or more of milk, a moderate amount of meat, fish, or cheese, slice of bread and a little butter.

Pope's Doctor Facing Probe By Medics

ROME (AP)—The Rome Medical Assn. will conduct a formal inquiry to determine if the personal physician of Pope Pius XII violated his professional obligations by selling articles describing the pontiff's last illness and death agonies.

The inquiry on Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, the Pope's personal physician for 19 years, will take about three weeks. A finding of guilty could result in a reprimand, suspension for a time or even ouster from the medical profession.

The association's governing council voted the inquiry at an urgent meeting to consider a storm of public demands that Galeazzi-Lisi be disciplined.

The Roman Catholic Church's College of Cardinals had earlier accepted Galeazzi-Lisi's resignation as Vatican Health Services director.

Galeazzi-Lisi has contended that his articles betrayed no professional secrets because his obligation of secrecy ended with his patient's death. He attributed the criticism to jealousy of doctors who were not called to treat the Pope before he died Oct. 9.

Bank Thief Plans Repayment of Cash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A man who stole $2,000 from the Mission District Branch of the Hibernia Bank Aug. 15 returned half of it a week later and promised the rest in installments, it was disclosed Monday.

After the FBI and bank officials had questioned a teller about the disappearance of 100 $20 bills, the bank received an anonymous letter containing 50 of the bills.

The writer explained that he had gone into the bank for a loan of $1,000 but took the bundle of bills when the teller's attention was distracted.

Since he had intended to borrow only half the amount, he sending the other half b wrote, and would repay the rest in installments as soon as he could.

KINGSTON

School will be dismissed at noon Friday to enable students to attend the Pumpkin Show and to witness the Kingston School Band in the parade at 2 p. m. Lunch will be served in the cafeteria as usual on Friday.

Dee Large, a senior will represent our school in the "Miss Pumpkin Show" contest. Dee will also participate in the "Miss Ross County" contest in the Chillicothe Halloween Parade. She was chosen by the student body of the high school for this honor.

The band is planning a Jitney Supper, October 28 from 5:30 till 7:30 p. m. This is immediately preceding the PTO meeting and all are urged to have supper, hear the band and chorus, and stay for the PTO meeting.

A public meeting concerning the State House Conference will be held in the school auditorium, at 8 p. m. October 20. This is an important meeting and concerns all tax-payers and parents in the community. Mrs. Dwight Davis is serving as chairman of the Kingston-Union School district meetings.

The 1958-59 edition of the Kingston Basketeers will open their season here on Nov. 1, 1958, with Monroe of Pickaway County. Five lettermen return this year— Bob Williams, (Capt.), Emory Carper, Gene Sims, Bill Chaffin and Tom Edwards. Work-outs have been going on since October 1 and will continue daily until the season begins.

Approximately 33 boys will be trying out for the Junior High Squad which began Monday. Plans are to carry 15 boys on the roster. There are several returning from last year's squad, plus a few outstanding new candidates. Mr. Walsh will coach the Junior High this season.

Election for cheerleaders was held recently and the following will serve the school this year as high school cheerleaders: Rosemary Lyons a Freshman; Donna Minor, Jane Davis, and Doll Large, Sophomores; and Glenda Hiles, and Dee Large, Seniors. Junior High cheerleaders are: Seventh Graders, Linda Large and Kathy Lyons; Eighth Graders, Nancy Carroll and Judy Parsons. Miss Cristina Marsh is advisor for the high school cheerleaders.

The annual Kingston Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Junior Class, will be held October 24 in the gym from 7 p. m. till 10 p. m. All in costume will be admitted free. Admission for those not in costume will be: Adults, 25 cents, Students of Kingston school, 10 cents, pre-school age children, free, if accompanied by parents.

Miss Mildred Wertman advisor for the class, announces Grades 7 thru 12 will have booths set up. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the masquerade. Queen and King of the carnival will be, Sue Likens, a sophomore and Jim Rossiter, a senior. Selected as Little King and Queen are, Mike Conaway and Nicholette Kelley of the First Grade. Susan Walsh of the Kindergarten will serve as Little Miss Kingston.

DARBY

School is well underway for another year at Darby Hi. The Senior class has established a Student Council. The officers are;

John Drummond, Senior—President; Linda Kennard, Senior—Vice President; Bonnie Erb, Junior—Secretary, and Jerry Fitzjerald, Junior—Treasurer.

The high school elected Senior Julia Peterson as Miss Darby. She is a football cheerleader, Secretary of the Senior class, and Editor of the school paper, "The Trojan Times."

Our football team has remained undefeated thus far this season. We are very proud of "Our Boys". Football cheerleaders are Julia Peterson, Senior; Linda Kennard, Senior; Judy Walker, Junior; Sue Deyo, Junior; and Dixie Warden, Sophomore. They were last year's basketball cheerleaders.

We are very fortunate to have a music teacher this year. She has chosen six girls to be in the Sextet. They are Bertie Looney, Senior; Linda Kennard, Senior; Barbara Decker, Senior; Shirley Hedrick, Senior; Mildred Barry, Junior; and Velma Williams, Junior. We also have a Girls' Choir and a Senior and Junior Band.

The students of Darby Township High School would like to express their sympathy to the family of David Smith who was an outstanding student and athlete at Walnut.

Mr. Taylor, the principal, set the meetings of the Student Council for every two weeks on Tuesday. They had their first meeting last Tuesday. They proposed a clean-up project.

The Senior Class is practicing for its play "Be Happy? Go Wacky", at Darby High Gym November 14, at 8 p. m.

The Junior Class is having a dance Nov. 7, 1958. It will be Round and Square dancing lasting from 9 to 12 p. m.

We are very proud of them.

CIRCLEVILLE

Six of the eight schools in the Circleville school system either have a cafeteria or are served by one in a neighboring building.

The city school system operates cafeterias at the High School, Atwater Elementary and Wayne Elementary. Pupils from Corwin Elementary go to the main cafeteria in the high school, while those from Walnut go to Court Elementary. The food for these pupils is prepared at the high school and taken to the Court Street building.

School cafeterias are on a non-profit basis. Because of the high cost of labor and food, 38 per cent of the schools in Ohio participating in the National School Lunch Program ended the year 1957-1958 with a deficit.

To provide additional funds for this program $35 million from import tariff funds have been allocated to purchase of fowl, fruit, meat and vegetables.

Circleville school cafeterias are under the direct supervision of Superintendent George A. Hartman and Virgil M. Cress, Clerk of the Board of Education.

DURING September this year, the cafeterias served 18,649 student lunches and 1,075 adult lunches; 22,567 half pints of milk were used.

Mrs. Grace Walters manages the high school cafeteria. Her helpers are Mrs. Kathryn Harrington, Mrs. Mary Miller, Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mrs. Eloise Starkey. Mrs. Esther Williams is at Wayne with Mrs. Maggie Rudd.

Mrs. Ruth Wells manages the Atwater cafeteria. Mrs. Nellie Richardson is her helper.

Mrs. Ralph Ward is manager of the cafeteria at Court Sourt St There students help serve the food.

Circleville teachers have elected two delegates and two alternates to the Ohio Education Association in Cleveland December 4-6. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Horton are the delegates while Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fisher are the alternates.

OEA allows $32 per delegate for expenses at the convention. Circleville teachers voted to take care of any additional expenses the delegates may have in connection with attending the convention.

Private School Pupils To Face Vast Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Flemming said today that students attending private schools because public schools are closed by the integration crisis are going to face serious problems when they try to enter college.

Flemming told a news conference he still is optomistic that common sense will prevail and bring about a solution.

"But the longer that schools are closed and young people and children don't have the opportunity to participate in a public school program, the more concerned I am with the impact," Flemming said.

Asked if there are any special factors or reports to him which led to his optomism that the problem would be solved, Flemming replied:

"There are meetings of parents being held in the communities. In effect, they are saying that what we want are open schools. This is a very healthy indication. I believe that their insistence on schools being open will ultimately prevail.

Flemming said some of the private schools being started are going to find it difficult to get accredited until it has operated at least a year and there are stiff requirements that library and laboratory facilities be available.

"The children are going to have difficulty getting into colleges," Flemming said. "Under our system an individual can rise above this, and by taking examinations show he can do so.

"But there is no doubt in my mind students forced to attend private schools because they are not afforced equal opportunity to attend public schools are going to be up against some serious problems."

Shovel Smacks Snout; Bruin Quits Hen Pen

The shovel wielder was Lotus Cooksey and the chicken yard was his. He discovered the bear when he heard a commotion in the yard and investigated, expecting a find a stray dog.

The 65-year-old ex-postman fought the animal for 15 minutes. He hit the bear on the nose and then found an iron rod to poke in the beast's stomach.

The bear climbed a tree in retreat. He sat there for two hours while armed police and a game warden, summoned by Mrs. Cooksey, watched. Finally bruin clambered back to the ground and ambled away toward the Cache River bottoms whence he had come.

Arkansas recently imported bears from Minnesota and loosed them in wild regions of the state "to add variety to the wildlife of Arkansas."

The Board of Education will provide substitute teachers for the delegates for the two days school is in session during the convention.

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is not going to be one of the most memorable political campaigns. If there's any excitement, it comes from the orators.

In this campaign there have been the usual exaggertion, the usual gas, some stumbling, and a division within the parties.

Most unusual feature: the Eisenhower administration's apparent uncertainty on what strategy to use.

In the field of exaggeration: former President Truman's crack that some of Eisenhower's advisers—"the big boys"—apparently "deliberately planned to bring this recession about."

In the gas field: the long-overworked Republican cry that a Democratic victory meant socialism. Republicans have been crying that for more than two decades.

But when they had a chance—after President Eisenhower's first victory—to try to wipe out New and Fair Deal legislation, they embraced most of it and expanded on it.

Some examples of divisions within the parties:

1. Truman took a stand against partisan attacks in the field of foreign policy right after his former secretary of state, Dean Acheson, made foreign policy a major issue. A whole swarm of Democrats followed Acheson, not Truman.

2. There's division between the conservative and more liberal Republicans and even between Republican candidates in one state. For example, take California's Gov. Goodwin Knight and Sen. William F. Knowland.

3. Truman and the Democratic national chairman, Paul Butler, not unaware of the big Northern Negro and liberal vote, castigated some of their own party, Southern Democratic supporters of public school segregation.

4. Dulles and Eisenhower seemed unsure what to do about letting foreign policy get into the campaign. At first they were in agreement with Truman on keeping it out. Dulles, in fact, said he agreed with Truman.

He even rebuked Vice President Nixon for tearing into the Democrats' handling of foreign affairs when they were in charge. Eisenhower seemed to rebuke him too. The President said: "I realize that when someone makes a charge, another individual is going to reply. I deplore that."

But Nixon wouldn't shut up or backtrack. News surveys indicated the Republicans were in for a real beating in the November elections. While Eisenhower sat at home with an above-the-strife attitude, Nixon was out campaigning hard.

It was he who was providing the campaign leadership, not Eisenhower. He made it plain he wouldn't stop talking on foreign policy. This could have meant a split between him and Eisenhower.

Faced with this prospect, both Eisenhower and Dulles melted, switched around and gave Nixon a go-ahead.

If Eisenhower gave the appearance of being uncertain what strategy to use, he brought it on himself. On Oct. 6 he called Republican leaders to the White House to "combat complacency and apathy" among Republican voters.

After leaving Eisenhower, the leaders issued a blazing statement full of political cliches, attacking the Democrats. Because they did this right after leaving the President, some people interpreted it as meaning he blessed the statement.

It seems he didn't. On Oct. 15, asked at a news conference if he approved, Eisenhower replied: "It was not my statement, it was theirs, and I think politicians do love to make things very positive."

A few days later he started out on the campaign trail himself, landed in California, and with the help of some speech writers, made his own blazing attack on the Democrats.

Whether at this late date in the campaign anything any of the politicians say can swing a vote is, for them, only a hope and a guess. But anyone who's been around a few years has heard it all before.

Area School News

KINGSTON

School will be dismissed at noon Friday to enable students to attend the Pumpkin Show and to witness the Kingston School Band in the parade at 2 p. m. Lunch will be served in the cafeteria as usual on Friday.

Dee Large, a senior will represent our school in the "Miss Pumpkin Show" contest. Dee will also participate in the "Miss Ross County" contest in the Chillicothe Halloween Parade. She was chosen by the student body of the high school for this honor.

The band is planning a Jitney Supper, October 28 from 5:30 till 7:30 p. m. This is immediately preceding the PTO meeting and all are urged to have supper, hear the band and chorus, and stay for the PTO meeting.

A public meeting concerning the State House Conference will be held in the school auditorium, at 8 p. m. October 20. This is an important meeting and concerns all tax-payers and parents in the community. Mrs. Dwight Davis is serving as chairman of the Kingston-Union School district meetings.

The 1958-59 edition of the Kingston Basketeers will open their season here on Nov. 1, 1958, with Monroe of Pickaway County. Five lettermen return this year— Bob Williams, (Capt.), Emory Carper, Gene Sims, Bill Chaffin and Tom Edwards. Work-outs have been going on since October 1 and will continue daily until the season begins.

Approximately 33 boys will be trying out for the Junior High Squad which began Monday. Plans are to carry 15 boys on the roster. There are several returning from last year's squad, plus a few outstanding new candidates. Mr. Walsh will coach the Junior High this season.

Election for cheerleaders was held recently and the following will serve the school this year as high school cheerleaders: Rosemary Lyons a Freshman; Donna Minor, Jane Davis, and Doll Large, Sophomores; and Glenda Hiles, and Dee Large, Seniors. Junior High cheerleaders are: Seventh Graders, Linda Large and Kathy Lyons; Eighth Graders, Nancy Carroll and Judy Parsons. Miss Cristina Marsh is advisor for the high school cheerleaders.

The annual Kingston Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Junior Class, will be held October 24 in the gym from 7 p. m. till 10 p. m. All in costume will be admitted free. Admission for those not in costume will be: Adults, 25 cents, Students of Kingston school, 10 cents, pre-school age children, free, if accompanied by parents.

Miss Mildred Wertman advisor for the class, announces Grades 7 thru 12 will have booths set up. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the masquerade. Queen and King of the carnival will be, Sue Likens, a sophomore and Jim Rossiter, a senior. Selected as Little King and Queen are, Mike Conaway and Nicholette Kelley of the First Grade. Susan Walsh of the Kindergarten will serve as Little Miss Kingston.

DARBY

School is well underway for another year at Darby Hi. The Senior class has established a Student Council. The officers are;

John Drummond, Senior—President; Linda Kennard, Senior—Vice President; Bonnie Erb, Junior—Secretary, and Jerry Fitzjerald, Junior—Treasurer.

The high school elected Senior Julia Peterson as Miss Darby. She is a football cheerleader, Secretary of the Senior class, and Editor of the school paper, "The Trojan Times."

Our football team has remained undefeated thus far this season. We are very proud of "Our Boys". Football cheerleaders are Julia Peterson, Senior; Linda Kennard, Senior; Judy Walker, Junior; Sue Deyo, Junior; and Dixie Warden, Sophomore. They were last year's basketball cheerleaders.

We are very fortunate to have a music teacher this year. She has chosen six girls to be in the Sextet. They are Bertie Looney, Senior; Linda Kennard, Senior; Barbara Decker, Senior; Shirley Hedrick, Senior; Mildred Barry, Junior; and Velma Williams, Junior. We also have a Girls' Choir and a Senior and Junior Band.

The Junior Hi elected as their cheerleaders Charlotte Rowland, 8th Grade; Rita Lawborn, 8th Grade; Pamela Gantz, 7th Grade; and Carolyn Sue Fry, 7th Grade. Substitutes are Kay Fortney, 7th

The students of Darby Township High School would like to express their sympathy to the family of David Smith who was an outstanding student and athlete at Walnut.

Mr. Taylor, the principal, set the meetings of the Student Council for every two weeks on Tuesday. They had their first meeting last Tuesday. They proposed a clean-up project.

The Senior Class is practicing for its play "Be Happy? Go Wacky", at Darby High Gym November 14, at 8 p. m.

The Junior Class is having a dance Nov. 7, 1958. It will be Round and Square dancing lasting from 9 to 12 p. m.

We are very proud of them.

CIRCLEVILLE

Six of the eight schools in the Circleville school system either have a cafeteria or are served by one in a neighboring building.

The city school system operates cafeterias at the High School, Atwater Elementary and Wayne Elementary. Pupils from Corwin Elementary go to the main cafeteria in the high school, while those from Walnut go to Court Elementary. The food for these pupils is prepared at the high school and taken to the Court Street building.

School cafeterias are on a non-profit basis. Because of the high cost of labor and food, 38 per cent of the schools in Ohio participating in the National School Lunch Program ended the year 1957-1958 with a deficit.

To provide additional funds for this program $35 million from import tariff funds have been allocated to purchase of fowl, fruit, meat and vegetables.

Circleville school cafeterias are under the direct supervision of Superintendent George A. Hartman and Virgil M. Cress, Clerk of the Board of Education.

DURING September this year, the cafeterias served 18,649 student lunches and 1,075 adult lunches; 22,567 half pints of milk were used.

Mrs. Grace Walters manages the high school cafeteria. Her helpers are Mrs. Kathryn Harrington, Mrs. Mary Miller, Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mrs. Eloise Starkey. Mrs. Esther Williams is at Wayne with Mrs. Maggie Rudd.

Mrs. Ruth Wells manages the Atwater cafeteria. Mrs. Nellie Richardson is her helper.

Mrs. Ralph Ward is manager of the cafeteria at Court Sourt St There students help serve the food.

Circleville teachers have elected two delegates and two alternates to the Ohio Education Association in Cleveland December 4-6. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Horton are the delegates while Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fisher are the alternates.

OEA allows $32 per delegate for expenses at the convention. Circleville teachers voted to take care of any additional expenses the delegates may have in connection with attending the convention.

Private School Pupils To Face Vast Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Flemming said today that students attending private schools because public schools are closed by the integration crisis are going to face serious problems when they try to enter college.

Flemming told a news conference he still is optomistic that common sense will prevail and bring about a solution.

"But the longer that schools are closed and young people and children don't have the opportunity to participate in a public school program, the more concerned I am with the impact," Flemming said.

Asked if there are any special factors or reports to him which led to his optomism that the problem would be solved, Flemming replied:

"There are meetings of parents being held in the communities. In effect, they are saying that what we want are open schools. This is a very healthy indication. I believe that their insistence on schools being open will ultimately prevail.

Flemming said some of the private schools being started are going to find it difficult to get accredited until it has operated at least a year and there are stiff requirements that library and laboratory facilities be available.

"The children are going to have difficulty getting into colleges," Flemming said. "Under our system an individual can rise above this, and by taking examinations show he can do so.

"But there is no doubt in my mind students forced to attend private schools because they are not afforced equal opportunity to attend public schools are going to be up against some serious problems."

Shovel Smacks Snout; Bruin Quits Hen Pen

The shovel wielder was Lotus Cooksey and the chicken yard was his. He discovered the bear when he heard a commotion in the yard and investigated, expecting a find a stray dog.

The 65-year-old ex-postman fought the animal for 15 minutes. He hit the bear on the nose and then found an iron rod to poke in the beast's stomach.

The bear climbed a tree in retreat. He sat there for two hours while armed police and a game warden, summoned by Mrs. Cooksey, watched. Finally bruin clambered back to the ground and ambled away toward the Cache River bottoms whence he had come.

Arkansas recently imported bears from Minnesota and loosed them in wild regions of the state "to add variety to the wildlife of Arkansas."

Pickaway Plains Chapter Hears Conservation Program

Tuesday afternoon members of the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution convened in the home of Mrs. George H. Armstrong, Kingston.

Mrs. R. R. Bales, regent, opened the meeting reading the President General's message from the DAR national magazine, followed by the ritual, Salute to the Flag and one verse of the National Anthem.

Mrs. W. Emerson Downing chairchairman of National Defense, read parts of a speech of Sen. William Jenner relating to recent decisions of the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Forest Croman introduced Miss Cynthia Funk, Circleville, and Miss Becky Collins, Saltcreek, who played a piano selection, "Alice Blue Gown."

A portion of the prayer given by Mrs. Martin Cromley, State Chaplain, at the dedication ceremony of the DAR Memorial Forest was read by Miss Florence Brown as a preface to the report of Mrs. Bruce Stevenson who spoke on the formal activities. A large area of waste farmland had been purchased by the State of Ohio to be improved and re-developed. Twenty acres of this amount, including the one acre of the Pickaway Plains Chapter were planted in white pine by the Ohio DAR to aid the state in its reclamation project.

Continuing the program's theme of conservation, Mrs. J. B. Stevenson read an article that appeared in the Reader's Digest entitled, "Will We Be Able To Feed Our Skyrocketing Population." Every eleven seconds there is one more mouth to feed and with the retirement of good farm soil, an estimated 4000 acres per day permanently diverted to dwelling units and industries, our present surplus and abundance will end quickly. The farming populationl discouraged by poor prices for their products, have left the farms to enter other occupations. Ohio has only 6 per cent of the total population remaining on farms.

The author predicts that by intensifying methods of cultivation and output and better farm management, agriculture will meet successfully the challenge of less land and more people. At least a seventy per cent increase in food per acre should be accomplished in the next twenty years and can be done with an expanded program of research, improvements in soil and water conservation, common sense farm zoning, tapping the vast supplies of nuclear energy and retention of freedom man of National Defense, readers.

Minutes of the September meeting were read by Mrs. Richard Hedges and reports of the District Meeting in London was given by Mrs. Joseph Peters. The Treasurer's statement was given by Mrs. Stevenson.

Mrs. Sterley Croman, chairman of American Indian Committee, stressed the importance of her committee this year by alluding to a letter written her by Mrs. Lee, state chairman, which called upon each member of the organization to support the work of the committee. The local chapter will concentrate on a nursing scholarship for St. Mary's and Christmas gifts for the children at Chilocco. Mrs. Croman will receive at any time the donations of members for these two projects.

The Committee on the Friends of the Museum, headed by Mrs. George Armstrong, is also ready to receive membership, the money collected by this committee to be used to buy authentic items for preservation in the museum.

Miss Marie Hamilton, chairman of ways and means, reported the Pumpkin Show booth had sold out of articles for sale but that the chapter would still take orders for pecans.

The regent reminded members that November 17 the chapter would be responsible for the luncheon at the Blood Bank and asked that Volunteers contact either Mrs. Christian Schwartz on herself.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and members of her committee; Miss Florence Bowsher, Mrs. Ira Stump, Mrs. Clarence McAbee, Mrs. Kermit Dountz, Mrs. W. L. Mack, Mrs. H. O. Pile, Mrs. William Ulm, Mrs. Raymond Goetting, Mrs. Robert Wallace.

Pickaway Plains Chapter Hears Conservation Program

Tuesday afternoon members of the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution convened in the home of Mrs. George H. Armstrong, Kingston.

Mrs. R. R. Bales, regent, opened the meeting reading the President General's message from the DAR national magazine, followed by the ritual, Salute to the Flag and one verse of the National Anthem.

Mrs. W. Emerson Downing chairchairman of National Defense, read parts of a speech of Sen. William Jenner relating to recent decisions of the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Forest Croman introduced Miss Cynthia Funk, Circleville, and Miss Becky Collins, Saltcreek, who played a piano selection, "Alice Blue Gown."

A portion of the prayer given by Mrs. Martin Cromley, State Chaplain, at the dedication ceremony of the DAR Memorial Forest was read by Miss Florence Brown as a preface to the report of Mrs. Bruce Stevenson who spoke on the formal activities. A large area of waste farmland had been purchased by the State of Ohio to be improved and re-developed. Twenty acres of this amount, including the one acre of the Pickaway Plains Chapter were planted in white pine by the Ohio DAR to aid the state in its reclamation project.

Continuing the program's theme of conservation, Mrs. J. B. Stevenson read an article that appeared in the Reader's Digest entitled, "Will We Be Able To Feed Our Skyrocketing Population." Every eleven seconds there is one more mouth to feed and with the retirement of good farm soil, an estimated 4000 acres per day permanently diverted to dwelling units and industries, our present surplus and abundance will end quickly. The farming populationl discouraged by poor prices for their products, have left the farms to enter other occupations. Ohio has only 6 per cent of the total population remaining on farms.

The author predicts that by intensifying methods of cultivation and output and better farm management, agriculture will meet successfully the challenge of less land and more people. At least a seventy per cent increase in food per acre should be accomplished in the next twenty years and can be done with an expanded program of research, improvements in soil and water conservation, common sense farm zoning, tapping the vast supplies of nuclear energy and retention of freedom man of National Defense, readers.

Minutes of the September meeting were read by Mrs. Richard Hedges and reports of the District Meeting in London was given by Mrs. Joseph Peters. The Treasurer's statement was given by Mrs. Stevenson.

Mrs. Sterley Croman, chairman of American Indian Committee, stressed the importance of her committee this year by alluding to a letter written her by Mrs. Lee, state chairman, which called upon each member of the organization to support the work of the committee. The local chapter will concentrate on a nursing scholarship for St. Mary's and Christmas gifts for the children at Chilocco. Mrs. Croman will receive at any time the donations of members for these two projects.

The Committee on the Friends of the Museum, headed by Mrs. George Armstrong, is also ready to receive membership, the money collected by this committee to be used to buy authentic items for preservation in the museum.

Miss Marie Hamilton, chairman of ways and means, reported the Pumpkin Show booth had sold out of articles for sale but that the chapter would still take orders for pecans.

The regent reminded members that November 17 the chapter would be responsible for the luncheon at the Blood Bank and asked that Volunteers contact either Mrs. Christian Schwartz on herself.

Cleveland Television Stations Reject Right to Work Films

CLEVELAND (AP)—Spot advertisements clipped from a full-length film produced by Hollywoold's Cecile B. DeMille and used by Ohioans for Right to Work, Inc., to promote their cause have been rejected by Cleveland television stations.

One station executive called the ads "inflammatory" and in "dreadful taste."

The ads, which fill one-minute or 20-second spots, depict such scenes as a mob overturning an automobile, a house being bombed, and a tough-looking actor, wearing a cap and carrying a club, who warns the audience: "We'll get you if you vote for right to work."

The films were prepared by advertising agencies in Cincinnati and Columbus, and two television stations here have returned their shipments, which were to have been released Monday. The third station has not received the film, but a spokesman said that if it came it would be sent back.

Milder presentations have been substituted by the right to work committee for Cleveland consumption. The station executives here stressed their rejection of the first shipments of the DeMille film was in no way to be interpreted as meaning they as individuals or their stations oppose the constitutionalamendment proposed in Issue 2.

In Cincinnati two television stations which have been showing the films said they would take another look at them today. Also, in that city, Charles M. Robertson, president of the Ralph H. Jones Co., one of the advertising agencies supplying the spot ads, said he didn't believe the films were in bad taste.

"It's just that the stations in Cleveland have gotten too much pressure from the unions," Robertson commented.

Elton Kile, a Plain City farmer and state legislator who is chairman of the Ohio right to work committee, said it was "unfortunate that the phrase 'bad taste' has been used to describe the incidents portrayed in right to work commercials inasmuch as they are only a small sample of the vicious intimidation and terrorism foisted upon Ohioans by power-hungry labor leaders.

"Throughout the state we have had women threatened, petition circulators knocked down, children forced to walk out of schools because unions had boycotted milk sold in the school cafeterias, and have had innumerable instances of similar tactics at the instance of united organized labor in Ohio.

"It was violence even worse than shown in the television commercials, namely the shooting of a child during a wildcat strike in Indiana, which wrote the right to work into law in that state."

An official of the Ohio Valley Dairy in Martins Ferry said a boycott on milk deliveries by his firm had tapered off. He said the boycott extended to school deliveries but that no children had "walked out" as a result.

Signing of a petition to place the issue on Nov. 4 election ballots produced the boycott, the official asserted. Union leaders have denied organized boycott efforts.

Both sides in the controversy over Issue 2 are spending heavily now in television, radio and newspaper advertising and their pitches are growing more intense with election only two weeks from today.

Toledo Paper Opposes RTW Ballot Issue

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Toledo Blade has come out in opposition to the issue to regulate labor contracts.

In an editorial, the Blade said that "we do not find all right on one side, all wrong on the other."

The newspaper said it has long been a champion of the "God-given right of the individual to dissent, to refuse to be chained to conformity, to stand on his own ground and think his own thoughts and tell the rest of the world to just let him be."

And, it continued, "we are opposed to corruption, to dictatorship in labor unions. We believe that if a man is required to belong to one of them as a condition of employment, they should be subject to governmental regulation."

But, said the newspaper, "these so-called right-to-work laws aren't aimed primarily at correcting the abuses of the labor movement—the racketeers, the gangsters and the goons, who could play their trade all the better amid choas and confusion.

"The whole business is inherently an anti-union movement, an attempt to turn the clock back toward those 'good old days' when an employer deals with his employes individually instead of bargaining with them collectively."

The proposed amendment, requiring a yes or no vote, says:

"No employer or labor organization shall deny or abridge the right to work by requiring membership or non-membership in, or payment or non-payment of money to, a labor organization as a condition of employment or continued employment in this state."

Meanwhile, the Blade's sister paper, the Toledo Times recommended a "yes" vote on the issue to regulate labor contracts.

In an editorial the newspaper said the experience of 18 other states with the so-called right-to-work law proves it would not harm leadership of unions or interfere with collective bargaining.

In Newfoundland there's a town named Brooklyn, also one named Flatbush.

Lausche Plans To Vote for RTW Proposal

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Frank J. Lausche, Ohio's Democratic senator, says he will vote for the proposal to regulate union contracts.

Interviewed by newsmen before he addressed a Champaign County Democratic gathering Monday night, he said: "I will vote for the right to work law."

He did not mention the proposal in his half-hour talk, during which he endorsed Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael V. DiSalle, who opposes Issue No. 2.

Lausche has said previously that he believes in collective bargaining and union membership but not to the extent of prohibiting work to those who refuse to join a union. He told newsmen Monday night:

"Unionism and collective bargaining have done great good for the American worker. Compulsion is not needed to induce him to join unions properly and ethically managed.

"Those who claim that the American worker will not seek voluntary membership in unions but will do so only under compulsion are libeling the character of the working man of our country."

Explaining why he thinks DiSalle whould be elected governor, Lausche told the audience the Democratic candidate is master of his own thinking and will "determine the course to be followed to best serve the nine million of our state."

Ohio Mental Clinic Expansion Pledged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Gov. C. William O'Neill said today his administration is pledged to a goal of "more than doubling the number of community clinics fighting mental illness throughout Ohio."

Asserting in a prepared statement that the best place to combat mental illness is at home, the governor said:

"We have initiated six new clinics in the last year and a half. Three more will follow in the immediate future. This means 38 clinics at work in Ohio serving well over 9,000 cases in various communities. But we intend to push on to an all-out effort in this area by making a program available which can open another 40 clinics and blanket the entire state."

Tavern Operator Jailed

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Darrell Harron, 57, a tavern operator, was sentenced to 1 to 20 years in prison Tuesday for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Robert Sanders, 19, at a night club near Swanton.

Gary Crosby In Hassle at Sandburg Fete

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A flock of celebrities showed up at a cocktail party for poet Carl Sandburg Monday night, but most of them missed the thrilling last act:

John Geiger, 48, West Coast head of a cheese firm that used to sponsor Bing's radio show, said he walked up to young Crosby—and:

"I told him who I was and wanted to introduce my wife to him. But all of a sudden we were on the floor wrestling. He insulted my wife."

Said 24-year-old Gary: "I still don't know what happened. This fellow just came up to me and the first thing I know I'm wrestling on the floor with him."

The match had been in progress less than a minute when bystanders — actor James Mason among them—separated the combatants. Neither was hurt, but Geiger lost his tie.

The cheese company and comedian Milton Berle sponsored the party for Sandburg. But Berle, the poet and lots of cocktails had disappeared by the time the late floor show started, some 3½ hours after the party began. And so had most of the other celebrities, including Groucho Marx, Alec Guinness, Sammy Davis Jr., Tina Louise and Barbara Nichols. Sandburg will be a guest on Berle's TV show Wednesday night.

Senatorial Fund To Aid Young

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla) said today Democrats hope to send more campaign money to their Ohio senatorial candidate, Stephen Young.

Smathers is chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee. He made the remark at a news conference after a reporter said Young is disappointed with contributions to his campaign against Sen. John W. Bricker, Republican.

Asked if the Democrats have written off Young, Smathers replied he hopes Young will win.

Akron Girl Trips, Falls, Is Killed by Train

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Racing with a Denmore High School classmate to cross tracks in front of a slow-moving freight train, Diana Mullenix, 13, tripped and fell Tuesday and was killed. The accident occurred in the Pennsylvania Railroad yard near Wilbeth Road.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Spot advertisements clipped from a full-length film produced by Hollywood's Cecile B. DeMille and used by Ohioans for Right to Work, Inc., to promote their cause have been rejected by Cleveland television stations.

One station executive called the ads "inflammatory" and in "dreadful taste."

The ads, which fill one-minute or 20-second spots, depict such scenes as a mob overturning an automobile, a house being bombed, and a tough-looking actor, wearing a cap and carrying a club, who warns the audience: "We'll get you if you vote for right to work."

The films were prepared by advertising agencies in Cincinnati and Columbus, and two television stations here have returned their shipments, which were to have been released Monday. The third station has not received the film, but a spokesman said that if it came it would be sent back.

Milder presentations have been substituted by the right to work committee for Cleveland consumption. The station executives here stressed their rejection of the first shipments of the DeMille film was in no way to be interpreted as meaning they as individuals or their stations oppose the constitutionalamendment proposed in Issue 2.

In Cincinnati two television stations which have been showing the films said they would take another look at them today. Also, in that city, Charles M. Robertson, president of the Ralph H. Jones Co., one of the advertising agencies supplying the spot ads, said he didn't believe the films were in bad taste.

"It's just that the stations in Cleveland have gotten too much pressure from the unions," Robertson commented.

Elton Kile, a Plain City farmer and state legislator who is chairman of the Ohio right to work committee, said it was "unfortunate that the phrase 'bad taste' has been used to describe the incidents portrayed in right to work commercials inasmuch as they are only a small sample of the vicious intimidation and terrorism foisted upon Ohioans by power-hungry labor leaders.

"Throughout the state we have had women threatened, petition circulators knocked down, children forced to walk out of schools because unions had boycotted milk sold in the school cafeterias, and have had innumerable instances of similar tactics at the instance of united organized labor in Ohio.

"It was violence even worse than shown in the television commercials, namely the shooting of a child during a wildcat strike in Indiana, which wrote the right to work into law in that state."

An official of the Ohio Valley Dairy in Martins Ferry said a boycott on milk deliveries by his firm had tapered off. He said the boycott extended to school deliveries but that no children had "walked out" as a result.

Signing of a petition to place the issue on Nov. 4 election ballots produced the boycott, the official asserted. Union leaders have denied organized boycott efforts.

Both sides in the controversy over Issue 2 are spending heavily now in television, radio and newspaper advertising and their pitches are growing more intense with election only two weeks from today.

Toledo Paper Opposes RTW Ballot Issue

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Toledo Blade has come out in opposition to the issue to regulate labor contracts.

In an editorial, the Blade said that "we do not find all right on one side, all wrong on the other."

The newspaper said it has long been a champion of the "God-given right of the individual to dissent, to refuse to be chained to conformity, to stand on his own ground and think his own thoughts and tell the rest of the world to just let him be."

And, it continued, "we are opposed to corruption, to dictatorship in labor unions. We believe that if a man is required to belong to one of them as a condition of employment, they should be subject to governmental regulation."

But, said the newspaper, "these so-called right-to-work laws aren't aimed primarily at correcting the abuses of the labor movement—the racketeers, the gangsters and the goons, who could play their trade all the better amid choas and confusion.

"The whole business is inherently an anti-union movement, an attempt to turn the clock back toward those 'good old days' when an employer deals with his employes individually instead of bargaining with them collectively."

The proposed amendment, requiring a yes or no vote, says:

"No employer or labor organization shall deny or abridge the right to work by requiring membership or non-membership in, or payment or non-payment of money to, a labor organization as a condition of employment or continued employment in this state."

Meanwhile, the Blade's sister paper, the Toledo Times recommended a "yes" vote on the issue to regulate labor contracts.

In an editorial the newspaper said the experience of 18 other states with the so-called right-to-work law proves it would not harm leadership of unions or interfere with collective bargaining.

In Newfoundland there's a town named Brooklyn, also one named Flatbush.

Lausche Plans To Vote for RTW Proposal

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Frank J. Lausche, Ohio's Democratic senator, says he will vote for the proposal to regulate union contracts.

Interviewed by newsmen before he addressed a Champaign County Democratic gathering Monday night, he said: "I will vote for the right to work law."

He did not mention the proposal in his half-hour talk, during which he endorsed Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael V. DiSalle, who opposes Issue No. 2.

Lausche has said previously that he believes in collective bargaining and union membership but not to the extent of prohibiting work to those who refuse to join a union. He told newsmen Monday night:

"Unionism and collective bargaining have done great good for the American worker. Compulsion is not needed to induce him to join unions properly and ethically managed.

"Those who claim that the American worker will not seek voluntary membership in unions but will do so only under compulsion are libeling the character of the working man of our country."

Explaining why he thinks DiSalle whould be elected governor, Lausche told the audience the Democratic candidate is master of his own thinking and will "determine the course to be followed to best serve the nine million of our state."

Ohio Mental Clinic Expansion Pledged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Gov. C. William O'Neill said today his administration is pledged to a goal of "more than doubling the number of community clinics fighting mental illness throughout Ohio."

Asserting in a prepared statement that the best place to combat mental illness is at home, the governor said:

"We have initiated six new clinics in the last year and a half. Three more will follow in the immediate future. This means 38 clinics at work in Ohio serving well over 9,000 cases in various communities. But we intend to push on to an all-out effort in this area by making a program available which can open another 40 clinics and blanket the entire state."

Septic Tank Must Be Clean

Chemicals Usually Won't Do the Work

Don't depend on chemicals to clean out your septic tank. Some of these are strong alkalis and may be harmful to both bacteria in the tank and the soil structure in the disposal field, says George Hamrick, County Agent.

Pumping out the tank is the only sure method of getting it clean. How often your tank needs cleaning depends on its size and the amount of use. If it needs cleaning oftener than every three or four years it is too small.

Your septic tank should be inspected once a year. Fall is a good time to check it while you are getting your home ready for winter. A stick about six feet long wrh white turkish toweling tacked on the bottom three feet makes a good measuring device. Dip the stick to the bottom of the tank. If it shows more than about 20 inches of sludge, the tank needs cleaning.

Many septic tanks are too small for the amount of use they get. As a minimum, a 750 gallon tankfor atw o bedroom home or a 900 gallon tank for a three bedroom home; a 1000 gallon is better. The larger tank requires less frequent cleaning and gives better protection for the disposal field. It also allows for the use of garbage grinders and automatic washers. Where these devices are used, the disposal field should be about two-thirds larger than otherwise.

Home owners may receive additional information on sewage systems from the Pickaway County Extension Office in the basement of the Post Office in Circleville.

Jackson 4-H Group Gives PTS Program

The 4-H members presented the program for the Jackson Parents-Teachers Society when it met last week at the school. Mrs. Boyd Hines, president, opened the meeting.

Devotions were given by Barbara Diffendal. Gary Thompson led the pledge allegiance to the flag and Ray Mowery led the 4-H group in their pledge.

Mowery of the fifth grade, won the membership drive and the six grade won the parents present count for the evening.

Judd Lanman, head of Westfall School District, was the guest speaker. He discussed the school finances and the new mill levy which will be up for vote in the November 4th election.

The 4-H members presented the program. Judy Fee and Judy Hinton gave a history of the Jackson Livestock Club and the Jackson Jolly Tasters and Basters Club. Linda Minor and Becky Stevenson gave a vocal duet and Sally Hines and Donna Mowery, a piano duet. To conclude the program, Russell McFarland presented a movie.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Justice, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Selby, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Stevenson, Mrs. Harold Fee, Mrs. Clark McFarland, Mrs. Glenn Holbrook and Mrs. James Holbrook.

What Tractor Fuel Best in The Long Run?

Which tractor fuel is cheapest in the long run? That depends on a number of factors—fuel prices, tractor investments, hours of use each year—say the authors of a new Agricultural Extension bulletin, "Tractor Fuel Costs".

Written by B. J. Lamp, Jr., Ohio State University agricultural engineer, and W. E. Gill and S. G. Huber, Extension agricultural engineers, the publication offers information that will help farmers determine which tractor and tractor fuel will mean lowest total power costs.

The bulletin contains a chart which may use to find the most economical fuel for them. It also discusses the various items which make up total tractor costs and the operating differences of tractors designed for various fuels.

Gasoline generally is the most economical fuel when the tractor use does not exceed 400 to 500 hours per year, the engineers maintain. They say the diesel tractor usually gives a significant economic advantage when the annual use exceeds 600 hours, while the propane tractor has no economic advantage under Ohio fuel prices.

Copies of this bulletin are available and may be received by contacting the Pickaway County Extension Office.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average six to eight degrees above normal. Normal high 59 north, 65 south. Normal low 40-43. Only minor temperature changes indicated through Monday. Precipitation will average one to two tenths of an inch in most sections in a few showers Thursday and again about Sunday or Monday.

Deprive Moles' Food, They Will Leave for Grub Havens

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent

A centuries-old strategem of war has been the destruction of the enemy's food supply. When the source of food dried up, the foe quickly buckled under.

This same strategy can be used by the 20th Century homeowner overrun by a meek but mischievous enemy, the mole. This subterranean pest grows fat on a diet of grubs which infest the lawn. In his search, spurred on by a voracious appetite, he can wreak havoc to an otherwise beauriful turf.

The rule for ridding the lawn of moles is simple; get rid of the grubs and other insects first. No more grubs, no more moles, for they will move on to happier hunting territory.

Experiments at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station in Wooster have found that a single application of certain insecticides will grub-proof a lawn for several years. In fact, a single application of chlordane, one of the best soil bug killers, has been effective at the experiment station for 12 years. The material loses its original chemical consistency but still does a good job of destroying insect life.

Chlordane should be used at the rate of five pounds of actual material per acre. Aldrin, dieldrin, endrin and heptachlor at the rate of three pounds, or DDT at 25 pounds per acre also are valuable.

Soil Bank Deadline Set For Friday

Chairman Marvin G. Steely of the Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee today reminded farmers who have received Conservation Reserve applications forms that Friday is the deadline for returning the applications to the county office.

Under the Soil Bank for 1959, the chairman explains, the first step a farmer had to take toward participating in the Conservation Reserve was to ask the County ASC Committee to establish maximum annual payment rates for this farm. The deadline for making such a request is already past.

The farmer then decides how much cropland he wants to put in the program, how long he wants his contract to run, and the rate of annual payment at which he will offer his land. This rate may be less than the maximum but not more. After entering this information on the application form, he returns the form to the County ASC Committee for final approval. This is the step that must be taken by Friday.

Steely points out that priority in accepting applications will be given to farmers who make the best offers. Thus, the farmer who offers land at less than the maximum rate set for his farm will have a better chance of having his application accepted if there are not enough finds available to cover all applications.

After the applications are returned to the County ASC Committee, contracts that can be accepted under the regulation will be offered to farmers for signature.

4-H Girls Enter Wool Dress Test

Martha Zeimer and Linda Justice have entered the "Make it Yourself with Wool" contest to be held November 1, in the St. Peters Lutheran Church at Lancaster.

Martha will be modeling a powder blue, three-quarter length sleeve dress with a pleated skirt. Linda will model a peacock blue shearth dress with three quarter length sleeves.

Both girls are sophomores at Stoutsville High School and both are members of the Dandy Doers 4-H club.

Financial Emergency Faces Toledo Clinic

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Roland Olen, acting administrator of Maumee Valley Hospital, reported Tuesday night that the institution will be $117,000 in arrears by the year's end on its payments to the state to cover employes' retirement benefits. Olen said unless additional financing is arranged, the hospital cannot continue operating as a public Lucas County hospital. Trustees will discuss the emergency Monday night.

50 American Students Get German Welcome

BONN, Germany (AP)—Cabinet Minister Hermann Lindrath today welcomed 50 American students who will study on German scholarships.

The scholarships are sponsored by a foundation created to express German gratitude for postwar U.S. economic aid. The Americans will study at technical institutions and universities in West Germany and West Berlin.

Judge Rules Against Man In Union Fuss

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A request to enjoin a United Rubber Workers local from questioning one of its members on his stand regarding a proposal to regulate union contracts was dismissed in Summit County Common Pleas Court Tuesday.

In his petition, Samuel H. Orme, of Barberton, charged that URW Local 7 officers had threatened him with expulsion from the union and possible loss of his job if he did not make public his views on the proposed constitutional amendment.

However, he testified in a hearing before Judge Ray B. Watters that no officer or executive committee member had threatened him with loss of either his job or his union membership. Orme is a pipefitter at Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

The union had charged Orme's suit was filed "for the purpose of creating publicity to support the so-called right - to - work amendment."

Judge Watters ruled that Orme's rights had never been invaded or jeopardized. He dismissed the request, with prejudice — which means it may not be brought back into court. Orme also was directed to pay court costs.

Scholarship Fund Is O'Neill Goal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A half-million-dollar scholarship fund is Gov. C. William O'Neill's announced aim.

The governor said Monday he will ask the next session of the Legislature to set aside money for 1,000 scholarships for outstanding students not otherwise able to go to college.

His administration will begin carrying out a program outlined by the Commission on Education Beyond the High School in the next few months, O'Neill added. The commission recommended a scholarship program.

He will propose a maximum of $800 a year, O'Neill said, with the scholarships available in every county on the basis of ability and need.

Ohio Natural Resources Chieftain Is Honored

ASHVILLE, N. C. (AP)— Herbert B. Eagon, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, has been elected an honorary member of the Soil Conservation Society of America. The society at its 13th annual meeting Tuesday night also elected Lloyd L. Harrold, project supervisor, soil and conservation research service at Coshocton, Ohio, to fellowship in the society.

175 MILLION IN U.S.—Mrs. Betty Maier, a Census Bureau typist, gets a closeup look at the electric population clock in the Commerce Department, Washington, as the estimated number of people in the United States reach 175 million, 8½ years after the 1950 census showed 151 million population.

Cooperatives Seen Giving Advantage to U.S. Farmers

Byron Frederick, elected Tuesday to an unprecedented fifth term as Grange head, discussed vertical integration of farm production in an address at the opening of the two-day, 86th annual Grange convention here Tuesday.

Vertical integration, he said, meant the combining or centralizing under one management of two or more stages of production, processing and marketing of a farm product.

This can be done, Frederick said, by the farmer working on contract for a processor, by a processor or distributor buying or renting land, providing equipment and hiring labor, or by individual farm operators getting into the processing and distribution end.

Advantages of vertical integration are in coordination of decisions toward getting a low-cost, uniform-quality product to the consumer at the right time, Frederick explained.

Delegates also heard Col. Herbert B. Eagon, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, call for better management of water supply. Three ways of achieving this, Eagon said, were to encourage infiltration of rainfall into the soil, to end stream pollution so water can be used over and over again, and to impound surplus water for future use.

Officers elected with Frederick were: Harry Cook, North Bloomfield, overseer; James Ross, Adams Mills, Steward; Ralph Nisley, Washington Court House, treaurer, and John F. Dowler, Ashville, secretary.

Leonard Manbeck of Bellevue, named to the executive committee, was chosen with his wife as Grange couple of the year. Donald Fenton of Newcomerstown was named Grange prince and Rowena Ruhl of Chesterville, Grange princess.

Delegates approved a resolution favoring revision of the state building code to reduce cost of school construction without sacrificing safety laws.

Trustee Quits Under Fire in Sandusky Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill has recommended the resignation of a trustee and suspension of the commandant and his adjutant at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home at Sandusky.

The governor based his action on a report by the Ohio Highway Patrol that investigated alleged irregularities at the home.

The governor pointed out that disciplinary action was up to trustees of the home. "If I had the authority, I'd take strong action this morning," he told a meeting of the trustees and members of the patrol in his office.

Those cited for possible suspension and dismissal were Commandant John W. Parker and Adjutant William Adams.

O'Neill said the investigation showed that Skinner had taken provisions from the institution. "I can only ask your resignation, which I am doing now," the governor told Skinner.

He said the report showed that Parker solicited money from home residents to help finance a convention of heads of similar institutions from other states last August.

Mack Truck Co., UAW Seek To End Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and the Mack Truck Co. have begun around-the-clock bargaining sessions to try to end a strike that began Sunday. A joint statement issued by both sides Tuesday indicated further progress has been made but no settlement has been reached. Mack has plants in four states including one at Sidney, Ohio.

DiSalle Sees New Industry Due in Ohio

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Ohio, now the number two industrial state in the nation, has the potential to become number one industrially, Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic candidate for governor, said here today.

"We must plan now for the means by which we can continue to be attractive to industry, in particular by good government housekeeping, especially in eliminating the so-called crash programs in highway planning, mental health and other services," DiSalle said. "Crash programs are usually ineffecient, expensive and in the long run inadequate."

"Unless state government effects every economy possible, the result is either to take away from necessary programs or to lead to confiscatory taxes," DiSalle added.

"An overall long-range plan is needed now to determine how Ohio is going to fare in the keen competition for industrial growth," DiSalle said. "Having that plan, we must be assured that we have the aggressive, effective leadership to direct it."

Septic Tank Must Be Clean

Chemicals Usually Won't Do the Work

Don't depend on chemicals to clean out your septic tank. Some of these are strong alkalis and may be harmful to both bacteria in the tank and the soil structure in the disposal field, says George Hamrick, County Agent.

Pumping out the tank is the only sure method of getting it clean. How often your tank needs cleaning depends on its size and the amount of use. If it needs cleaning oftener than every three or four years it is too small.

Your septic tank should be inspected once a year. Fall is a good time to check it while you are getting your home ready for winter. A stick about six feet long with white turkish toweling tacked on the bottom three feet makes a good measuring device. Dip the stick to the bottom of the tank. If it shows more than about 20 inches of sludge, the tank needs cleaning.

Many septic tanks are too small for the amount of use they get. As a minimum, a 750 gallon tankfor atwo bedroom home or a 900 gallon tank for a three bedroom home; a 1000 gallon is better. The larger tank requires less frequent cleaning and gives better protection for the disposal field. It also allows for the use of garbage grinders and automatic washers. Where these devices are used, the disposal field should be about two-thirds larger than otherwise.

Home owners may receive additional information on sewage systems from the Pickaway County Extension Office in the basement of the Post Office in Circleville.

Jackson 4-H Group Gives PTS Program

The 4-H members presented the program for the Jackson Parents-Teachers Society when it met last week at the school. Mrs. Boyd Hines, president, opened the meeting.

Devotions were given by Barbara Diffendal. Gary Thompson led the pledge allegiance to the flag and Ray Mowery led the 4-H group in their pledge.

Mowery of the fifth grade, won the membership drive and the six grade won the parents present count for the evening.

Judd Lanman, head of Westfall School District, was the guest speaker. He discussed the school finances and the new mill levy which will be up for vote in the November 4th election.

The 4-H members presented the program. Judy Fee and Judy Hinton gave a history of the Jackson Livestock Club and the Jackson Jolly Tasters and Basters Club. Linda Minor and Becky Stevenson gave a vocal duet and Sally Hines and Donna Mowery, a piano duet. To conclude the program, Russell McFarland presented a movie.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Justice, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Selby, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Stevenson, Mrs. Harold Fee, Mrs. Clark McFarland, Mrs. Glenn Holbrook and Mrs. James Holbrook.

What Tractor Fuel Best in The Long Run?

Which tractor fuel is cheapest in the long run? That depends on a number of factors—fuel prices, tractor investments, hours of use each year—say the authors of a new Agricultural Extension bulletin, "Tractor Fuel Costs".

Written by B. J. Lamp, Jr., Ohio State University agricultural engineer, and W. E. Gill and S. G. Huber, Extension agricultural engineers, the publication offers information that will help farmers determine which tractor and tractor fuel will mean lowest total power costs.

The bulletin contains a chart which may use to find the most economical fuel for them. It also discusses the various items which make up total tractor costs and the operating differences of tractors designed for various fuels.

Gasoline generally is the most economical fuel when the tractor use does not exceed 400 to 500 hours per year, the engineers maintain. They say the diesel tractor usually gives a significant economic advantage when the annual use exceeds 600 hours, while the propane tractor has no economic advantage under Ohio fuel prices.

Copies of this bulletin are available and may be received by contacting the Pickaway County Extension Office.

FARM

Deprive Moles' Food, They Will Leave for Grub Havens

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent

A centuries-old strategem of war has been the destruction of the enemy's food supply. When the source of food dried up, the foe quickly buckled under.

This same strategy can be used by the 20th Century homeowner overrun by a meek but mischievous enemy, the mole. This subterranean pest grows fat on a diet of grubs which infest the lawn. In his search, spurred on by a voracious appetite, he can wreak havoc to an otherwise beauriful turf.

The rule for ridding the lawn of moles is simple; get rid of the grubs and other insects first. No more grubs, no more moles, for they will move on to happier hunting territory.

Experiments at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station in Wooster have found that a single application of certain insecticides will grub-proof a lawn for several years. In fact, a single application of chlordane, one of the best soil bug killers, has been effective at the experiment station for 12 years. The material loses its original chemical consistency but still does a good job of destroying insect life.

Chlordane should be used at the rate of five pounds of actual material per acre. Aldrin, dieldrin, endrin and heptachlor at the rate of three pounds, or DDT at 25 pounds per acre also are valuable.

Soil Bank Deadline Set For Friday

Chairman Marvin G. Steely of the Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee today reminded farmers who have received Conservation Reserve applications forms that Friday is the deadline for returning the applications to the county office.

Under the Soil Bank for 1959, the chairman explains, the first step a farmer had to take toward participating in the Conservation Reserve was to ask the County ASC Committee to establish maximum annual payment rates for this farm. The deadline for making such a request is already past.

The farmer then decides how much cropland he wants to put in the program, how long he wants his contract to run, and the rate of annual payment at which he will offer his land. This rate may be less than the maximum but not more. After entering this information on the application form, he returns the form to the County ASC Committee for final approval. This is the step that must be taken by Friday.

Steely points out that priority in accepting applications will be given to farmers who make the best offers. Thus, the farmer who offers land at less than the maximum rate set for his farm will have a better chance of having his application accepted if there are not enough finds available to cover all applications.

After the applications are returned to the County ASC Committee, contracts that can be accepted under the regulation will be offered to farmers for signature.

Judge Rules Against Man In Union Fuss

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A request to enjoin a United Rubber Workers local from questioning one of its members on his stand regarding a proposal to regulate union contracts was dismissed in Summit County Common Pleas Court Tuesday.

In his petition, Samuel H. Orme, of Barberton, charged that URW Local 7 officers had threatened him with expulsion from the union and possible loss of his job if he did not make public his views on the proposed constitutional amendment.

However, he testified in a hearing before Judge Ray B. Watters that no officer or executive committee member had threatened him with loss of either his job or his union membership. Orme is a pipefitter at Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

The union had charged Orme's suit was filed "for the purpose of creating publicity to support the so-called right - to - work amendment."

Judge Watters ruled that Orme's rights had never been invaded or jeopardized. He dismissed the request, with prejudice — which means it may not be brought back into court. Orme also was directed to pay court costs.

Scholarship Fund Is O'Neill Goal

The governor said Monday he will ask the next session of the Legislature to set aside money for 1,000 scholarships for outstanding students not otherwise able to go to college.

His administration will begin carrying out a program outlined by the Commission on Education Beyond the High School in the next few months, O'Neill added. The commission recommended a scholarship program.

He will propose a maximum of $800 a year, O'Neill said, with the scholarships available in every county on the basis of ability and need.

Byron Frederick, elected Tuesday to an unprecedented fifth term as Grange head, discussed vertical integration of farm production in an address at the opening of the two-day, 86th annual Grange convention here Tuesday.

Vertical integration, he said, meant the combining or centralizing under one management of two or more stages of production, processing and marketing of a farm product.

This can be done, Frederick said, by the farmer working on contract for a processor, by a processor or distributor buying or renting land, providing equipment and hiring labor, or by individual farm operators getting into the processing and distribution end.

Advantages of vertical integration are in coordination of decisions toward getting a low-cost, uniform-quality product to the consumer at the right time, Frederick explained.

Delegates also heard Col. Herbert B. Eagon, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, call for better management of water supply. Three ways of achieving this, Eagon said, were to encourage infiltration of rainfall into the soil, to end stream pollution so water can be used over and over again, and to impound surplus water for future use.

Leonard Manbeck of Bellevue, named to the executive committee, was chosen with his wife as Grange couple of the year. Donald Fenton of Newcomerstown was named Grange prince and Rowena Ruhl of Chesterville, Grange princess.

Delegates approved a resolution favoring revision of the state building code to reduce cost of school construction without sacrificing safety laws.

Trustee Quits Under Fire in Sandusky Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill has recommended the resignation of a trustee and suspension of the commandant and his adjutant at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home at Sandusky.

The governor pointed out that disciplinary action was up to trustees of the home. "If I had the authority, I'd take strong action this morning," he told a meeting of the trustees and members of the patrol in his office.

O'Neill said the investigation showed that Skinner had taken provisions from the institution. "I can only ask your resignation, which I am doing now," the governor told Skinner.

He said the report showed that Parker solicited money from home residents to help finance a convention of heads of similar institutions from other states last August.

Mack Truck Co., UAW Seek To End Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and the Mack Truck Co. have begun around-the-clock bargaining sessions to try to end a strike that began Sunday. A joint statement issued by both sides Tuesday indicated further progress has been made but no settlement has been reached. Mack has plants in four states including one at Sidney, Ohio.

Gross National Product Eyed By Economists

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The kingpin of all the measures of good times or bad in the United States is the gross national product. It is widely accepted by businessmen and economists as giving the best picture of the economy at the moment.

But some economists have challenged its accuracy and doubt if it gives a complete picture of where we stand. And probably many Americans have only a vague notion of what it is or how it is compiled.

The short definition for GNP usually used is: The dollar value of all goods and services produced in the nation.

President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers has just predicted that GNP will hit a record annual rate of 450 billion dollars by the end of this year — a comforting thought for all, except for those whose own businesses aren't booming and for the more than four million who are out of work.

The GNP is made up of the best statistics and estimates available to the Commerce Department. The first announcements often have to be revised as later figures come in. And a rise in GNP could reflect a rise in prices quite as much as any gain in business activity.

What are the components of GNP?

First and biggest are personal consumption expenditures, which at present are reported to be running at an annual rate of 292 billion dollars. This is an estimate of what people are spending for durable goods like autos and household appliances, what they are spending for nondurable goods like clothing and food, and what they are spending for services like electricity and rent and medical care.

The next item is gross private domestic investment. This includes spending on construction of nonfarm homes or apartment houses and the cost of all other kinds of building. What business is investing in durable equipment also goes into this figure or estimate.

Then the department gathers data on business inventories. If they are rising as they were a year ago the change from the previous three months period is added onto GNP. If they are failing as they have been for some time the change from the last period is subtracted from GNP. The change in the last three months was a minus four billion dollars at an annual rate.

Then the department adds in what it has been able to find out about net foreign investment — what American businessmen or individuals have spent on their holdings abroad.

Finally it looks at government purchases. Here the figures are more easily come by. And over the past year they have been rising.

The latest figures show federal spending on goods and services running at 53 billion dollars a year, and state and local spending running at 40 billion. With the federal budget approaching the 80 billion dollar a year level, it is obvious that not all outgo adds to gross national product.

The value of GNP is that it gives estimates of three things: The value produced, the incomes earned, and the spending done.

Critics say it leaves out of account some other kinds of economic activity. And they list the exchange of used cars, houses, land, or of stocks, bonds, mortgages and other credit instruments.

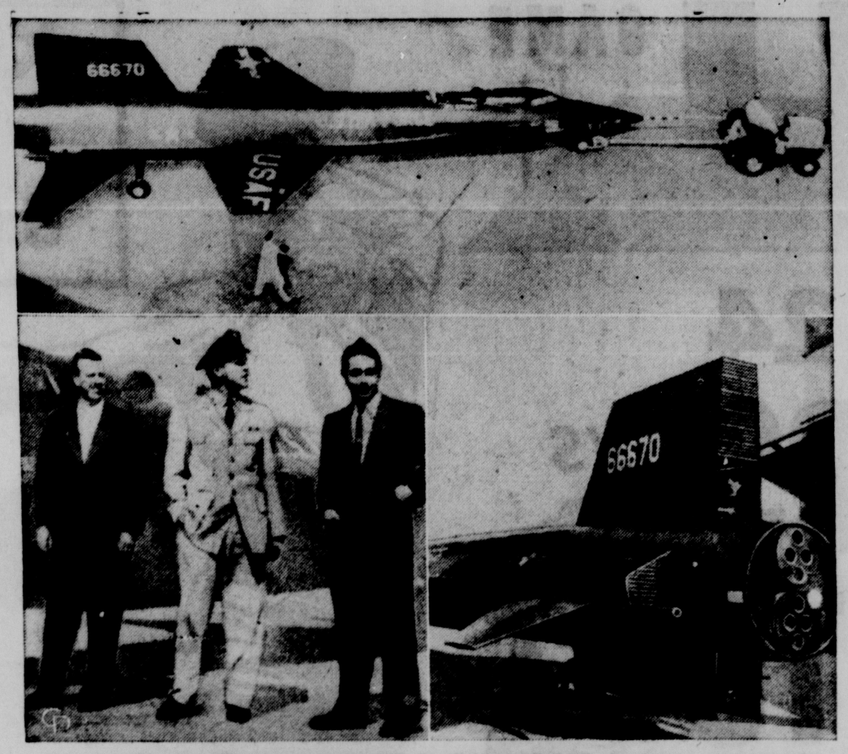

They also stress the distortions caused by changing prices when GNP is used as gospel for where the economy is and where it's headed.

Dayton IUE To Ballot On Delco Settlement

As part of their training, students were paired off and each couple watched a local intersection for an hour. The intersections surveyed were Pleasant and Court Sts., Washington and Main Sts., Court and Main Sts., Stoutsville Pike and Route 22, Mound and Mingo Sts., Pickaway and Ohio Sts., Washington and Mound Sts., Pinckney and Court Sts., Franklin and Court Sts. and Mound and Court Sts.

* * *

ONE HUNDRED sixty pedestrians jaywalked; 86 walked against the light; 166 walked with the light; 66 were gutter standers: 49 stepped into streets from behind parked cars, 179 stayed in the crosswalks, 31 ran across the street; and 109 stepped out on the street side of their cars.

Students participating in the survey said they hoped their report would prompt local drivers and pedestrians to exercise more precaution.

Liquor Purchase Slips To Be Voided

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — They're finally going to throw out that slip you wrote in 1952 to buy a bottle at a state liquor store.

But the last Legislature amended the law to permit the finance director to dispose of valueless records. Finance Director John A. Skipton says the liquor store slips will be sold as scrap paper shortly.

Another 300 or so tons of records from a half-dozen state agencies have already been disposed of, Skipton says.

Missile Program Ahead of Schedule

DETROIT (AP)—Army Secretary Wilber Brucker says portions of the Redstone and Jupiter missile programs are four months ahead of schedule.

"Vast progress has been made in advancing all aspects of production," he said, "so that now we have gained four months in some of the important portions of the work."

Cops, Firemen Join in Hunt For Bus Boy

CINCINNATI (AP)—A hotel bus boy stole an automobile on a downtown street here Tuesday night and it brought on a wild two-hour chase by as many as 75 policemen over city streets and through fields.

Even firemen were in on the act with big searchlights when Jerry Singleton, 27, finally was captured at the rear of a home.

Singleton was taken to a hospital suffering from a bullet wound in a finger, a severe head cut suffered when he wrecked the stolen car and scratches and bruises he got as he fled through fields.

Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Black suffered a slight bullet wound on one hand. He apparently was shot with his own gun as he fired at the fleeing Singleton while operating his motorcycle at high speed.

The chase started when motorcycle Patrolman George O'Reilley, 31, spotted the stolen car shortly after hearing a radio report on it. He and Black started shooting and the car crashed.

Later, Charles Farmer, 24, called police when he saw Singleton fall exhausted in his yard. As officers arrived, Singleton again started running through back yards and vaulting fences.

He was cornered in a schoolyard and police fired several shots at him but he again got away.

When he finally was cornered for good and surrendered, firemen were on hand with searchlights to light up the area.

Police said Singleton told them he was paroled last July after serving four years in Ohio Penitentiary for burglary.

Ohio Hereford Honored

Rabbi Given New Invite by Unitarians

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Arlington's Unitarian church is inviting a Jewish rabbi to return next Sunday to deliver a sermon that was canceled by a bomb threat.

"We will not be intimidated by such business," said the Rev. Ross Allen Weston, the church pastor, in announcing that Rabbi Emmet A. Frank "is coming back next Sunday."

Approximately 570 worshipers, including 220 Sunday school children, were evacuated from the church Sunday when an anonymous telephone caller threatened to bomb the building.

"You better get the kids out of there. We're going to bomb the place," a deep-voiced man told Mrs. Joseph Bowen, secretary-director of the religious school office about 15 minutes before Rabbi Frank was due to speak.

Rabbi Frank, of the Beth-el Temple in neighboring Alexandria, recently touched off a local controversy when he criticized Virginia's massive resistance program to school integration. At the time of the bomb scare he had delivered a sermon at the church on the topic of Judaism and was waiting to repeat it.

Mr. Weston called the bomb threat the work of a small hate group.

Nuclear Weapons Use Part of Policy

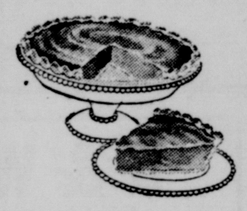

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Nathan F. Twining said today that U.S. national policy "calls for the use of nuclear weapons in any case where such use would be advantageous to us."

The chairman of the Joint Chisfs of Staff added that national strategy calls for fighting an enemy "on our terms and not on his."

Twining, in an address to the Assn. of the U.S. Army Convention cautioned the armed services against beliefs that only one military service should be built up for any particular type of war, general or limited.

Consecration Booked For Bishop-Elect

CLEVELAND (AP)— Consecration ceremonies will be held in St. John's Cathedral here Tuesday for bishop-elect Paul T. Hallinan, who will be installed as bishop of Charleston, S. C. on Nov. 25. Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, will be the consecrating prelate.

Gross National Product Eyed By Economists

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The kingpin of all the measures of good times or bad in the United States is the gross national product. It is widely accepted by businessmen and economists as giving the best picture of the economy at the moment.

But some economists have challenged its accuracy and doubt if it gives a complete picture of where we stand. And probably many Americans have only a vague notion of what it is or how it is compiled.

The short definition for GNP usually used is: The dollar value of all goods and services produced in the nation.

President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers has just predicted that GNP will hit a record annual rate of 450 billion dollars by the end of this year — a comforting thought for all, except for those whose own businesses aren't booming and for the more than four million who are out of work.

The GNP is made up of the best statistics and estimates available to the Commerce Department. The first announcements often have to be revised as later figures come in. And a rise in GNP could reflect a rise in prices quite as much as any gain in business activity.

What are the components of GNP?

First and biggest are personal consumption expenditures, which at present are reported to be running at an annual rate of 292 billion dollars. This is an estimate of what people are spending for durable goods like autos and household appliances, what they are spending for nondurable goods like clothing and food, and what they are spending for services like electricity and rent and medical care.

The next item is gross private domestic investment. This includes spending on construction of nonfarm homes or apartment houses and the cost of all other kinds of building. What business is investing in durable equipment also goes into this figure or estimate.

Then the department gathers data on business inventories. If they are rising as they were a year ago the change from the previous three months period is added onto GNP. If they are falling as they have been for some time the change from the last period is subtracted from GNP. The change in the last three months was a minus four billion dollars at an annual rate.

Then the department adds in what it has been able to find out about net foreign investment — what American businessmen or individuals have spent on their holdings abroad.

Finally it looks at government purchases. Here the figures are more easily come by. And over the past year they have been rising.

The latest figures show federal spending on goods and services running at 53 billion dollars a year, and state and local spending running at 40 billion. With the federal budget approaching the 80 billion dollar a year level, it is obvious that not all outgo adds to gross national product.

The value of GNP is that it gives estimates of three things: The value produced, the incomes earned, and the spending done.

Critics say it leaves out of account some other kinds of economic activity. And they list the exchange of used cars, houses, land, or of stocks, bonds, mortgages and other credit instruments.

They also stress the distortions caused by changing prices when GNP is used as gospel for where the economy is and where it's headed.

Dayton IUE To Ballot On Delco Settlement

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Members of Local 755 of the International Union of Electrical Workers will vote this afternoon on whether to accept a settlement of their grievances and end a 20-day-old strike against Delco Products Division of General Motors. Negotiators for the union and the company announced a tentative settlement Tuesday night. Seniority provisions is the principal issue that has kept the workers out since Oct. 2.

IT'S THE MOST YET—The brand new rocket ship X-15 is rolled out of a hangar (upper) at the North American Aviation plant in Inglewood, Calif., to be trucked to Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., for flight tests, scheduled for February. First pilot will be Scott Crossfield (right, lower left photo). Standing beside the X-15 with him are Joseph Walker (left) of NASA and Capt. Robert White, USAF. The rear view of the X-15 (lower right) shows its rocket nozzles and part of the tail construction. The craft is expected to fly 4,000-4,500 mph, 100-150 miles high.

As part of their training, students were paired off and each couple watched a local intersection for an hour. The intersections surveyed were Pleasant and Court Sts., Washington and Main Sts., Court and Main Sts., Stoutsville Pike and Route 22, Mound and Mingo Sts., Pickaway and Ohio Sts., Washington and Mound Sts., Pinckney and Court Sts., Franklin and Court Sts. and Mound and Court Sts.

Here are the almost unbelievable results of the survey: 18 motorists did not observe stop signs; 68 passed red lights; 216 did not stop behind cross walks; 71 showed careless operation of vehicles.

Forty-five showed courtesy to pedestrians; 51 turned corners too quickly; 21 turned corners from the wrong lane of traffic.

* * *

ONE HUNDRED sixty pedestrians jaywalked; 86 walked against the light; 166 walked with the light; 66 were gutter standers; 49 stepped into streets from behind parked cars, 179 stayed in the crosswalks, 31 ran across the street; and 109 stepped out on the street side of their cars.

Students participating in the survey said they hoped their report would prompt local drivers and pedestrians to exercise more precaution.

Ohio-Born Hotel Chief Bequeaths 1,972,923

OMAHA (AP)—Eugene C. Eppley, hotel magnate who died Oct. 14, left bequests totaling $1,972,923 in his will. An executor of his estate said most of his assets were transferred to the Eugene C. Eppley Foundation prior to his death. Eppley was born in Akron, Ohio, and started his business career in Canton, Ohio.

Liquor Purchase Slips To Be Voided

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — They're finally going to throw out that slip you wrote in 1952 to buy a bottle at a state liquor store.

For six years, state stores have kept the slips on file. Piled up, they'd weigh about 300 tons by now.

But the last Legislature amended the law to permit the finance director to dispose of valueless records. Finance Director John A. Skipton says the liquor store slips will be sold as scrap paper shortly.

Another 300 or so tons of records from a half-dozen state agencies have already been disposed of, Skipton says.

Missile Program Ahead of Schedule

DETROIT (AP)—Army Secretary Wilber Brucker says portions of the Redstone and Jupiter missile programs are four months ahead of schedule.

"Vast progress has been made in advancing all aspects of production," he said, "so that now we have gained four months in some of the important portions of the work."

AP Guesspert Picks Badgers To Trip Bucks

Army, Auburn, Irish, Oklahoma Also Tapped For Victory Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — You say they have taken the kicking out of football? Hmmmm? What about these letters? After all, 36 correct guesses in 52 attempts last week isn't too bad, is it?

Army over Pittsburgh: Two of the East's most rugged. Dawkins —if he plays—and Anderson give the Cadets an edge in speed.

Louisiana State over Florida: How can the Tigers be denied. They have a Cannon, Bill that is, while the Gators must counter with 145-pound Jimmy Dunn.

Oklahoma over Kansas State: The Sooners, now playing in the Big Eight, will have a winning streak of two come Saturday night.

Washington State over Southern California: Have you ever seen so many ups and down as in the Coast Conference this fall?

Notre Dame over Purdue: All the Irish walking wounded are back in good health. They will need to be to stop the team that spilled Michigan State a week ago.

Princeton over Cornell: Who would have thought two months ago that this one might decide the Ivy League title?

FRIDAY

William & Mary over George Washington.

SATURDAY

EAST: Miami over Boston College, Brown over Rhode Island, Buffalo over Columbia, Connecticut over Delaware, Dartmouth over Harvard, Holy Cross over Boston University, Rutgers over Lehigh, Navy over Penn, Penn State over Syracuse, Yale over Colgate, Villanova over Richmond.

SOUTH: Mississippi over Arkansas, Clemson over South Carolina, Duke, Furman over the Citadel, Kentucky over Georgia, Mississippi State over Alabama, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Tennessee over Florida State, Vanderbilt over Virginia, Virginia Tech over West Virginia.

MIDWEST: Iowa over Northwestern, Cincinnati over Oklahoma State, Colorado over Nebraska, Arizona State over Detroit, Bradley over Drake, Michigan State over Illinois, Indiana over Miami (Ohio), Tulane over Kansas College of Pacific over Marquette, Michigan over Minnesota, Missouri over Iowa State.

SOUTHWEST: Rice over Texas, Baylor over Texas A&M, Hardin-Simmons over Wichita, North Texas State over Tulsa, Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech.

FAR WEST: Air Force over Utah, Oregon over California, Idaho over Arizona, Oregon State over Washington, UCLA over Stanford, Colorado State over Utah State, Wyoming over New Mexico.

Matthews Collects Nod Over Zulueta

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — You'd hardly guess by listening to young Len Matthews today that the unbeaten lightweight prospect had just successfully passed his most important ring test.

Somewhat dejected despite his unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night over crafty Orlando Zulueta, Matthews complained, "I never really got a good shot at him. He taught me a lot but I'd like to fight someone who would throw more punches."

Zulueta, 30-year-old Cuban veteran of 110 fights, seemed relieved that he had survived two knockdowns and lasted the distance.

"The kid's got class," Zulueta said.

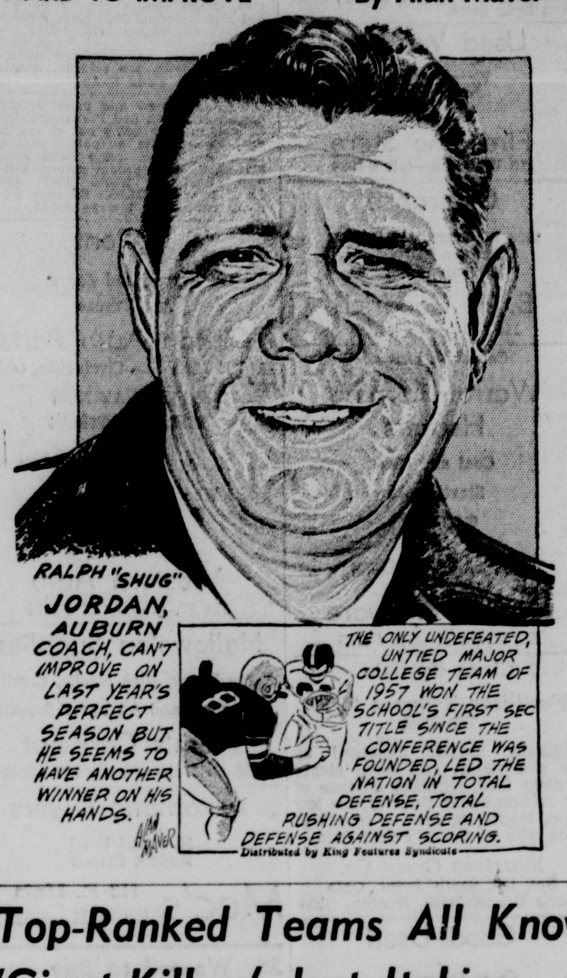

The bout was the 15th for Matthews, a 19-year-old Philadelphian who only once before had gone 10 rounds. The greater experience of the Cuban showed in early rounds when he held his own strictly on his boxing and counterpunching ability.

As Mathews explained it afterwards: "I wanted to get him suddenly, as fast as I could." He said trainer Quenzell McCall warned him against this, cautioning that he might leave himself open.

Matthews, at 133, two pounds less than Zulueta, said he took McCall's advice, but it didn't look it from ringside. He started moving faster and throwing harder and more often, apparently worried that ring physician Alfred Ayella Jr. would stop the fight.

Top-Ranked Teams All Know 'Giant-Killers' Just Itching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How secure did one of those fabled Western gunslingers feel with a few notches on his shootin' airn? Ask any of the top football teams. Someone is always waiting to gain a "rep" by knocking them off.

This is not a spontaneous thing. A team begins its plotting over the weekend with scouting reports and movies, then goes into the operations stage with the first practice session.

At Pittsburgh, where top-ranked Army meets Pitt Saturday, Panther Coach Johnny Michelosen is trying to stop a siege of fumbleitis that has hampered a Pitt attack. He is also sharpening up a passing attack led by Ivan Toncic and Bill Kaliden to exploit a weakness the Cadets showed in beating Virginia last Saturday.

Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn, looking toward Ohio State (No. 2) Saturday, expects tackles Dan Lanphear and Jim Heinecke to be off the injury list. The first two teams worked only lightly after being by Iowa Saturday for their first loss.

The Rice Owls, playing fourth-rated Texas Saturday night, worked only lightly and watched films of last year's Texas game. Guard Charley Knight, on the injured list, was pronounced available for the game.

Maryland Coach Tommy Mont made wholesale changes in his second and third teams as he strived to get some depth for his game with fifth-ranked Auburn. Winless Arkansas, playing sixth-ranked Mississippi, studied films of its loss to Texas while Coach Frank Broyles moved Glenn Throckmorton into the right tackle spot replacing Eddie Walker, who moved to right guard.

Northwestern's (No. 8) first-stringers exercised lightly, then were excused as they began prepping for seventh-rated Iowa. The Hawkeyes ran through a signal drill, while Kansas State went through a long drill, without contact work, to correct glaring errors in its 32-8 loss to Missouri. K-State plays ninth-ranked Oklahoma.

South Carolina has a Thursday date with Clemson (No. 10) and went throughout its final heavy contact work, emphasizing pass defense against Clemson quarterback Harvey White.

Pro Cage Benefit Yields $10,121 For Ailing Player

CINCINNATI (AP)—Officials of the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Assn. today were to take a check for $10,121.40 to Maurice Stokes, the team's former star rebounder.

Stokes never has been more than partly conscious since being stricken with a brain disease last March. He has been hospitalized since that time.

Tuesday night four teams of the NBA—the Royals, the St. Louis Hawks, the Boston Celtics and the Detroit Pistons—played a benefit double-header here to help raise money to pay Stokes' mounting hospital and medical bills.

A crowd of 5,511 turned out and saw the Celtics nose out the Hawks, defending NBA champions, 108-106, while the Pistons squeezed past the Royals, 108-103.

Browns' Pass Defense Seen Key To Win over Cardinals

CLEVELAND (AP)—If the Chicago Cardinals operate true to form next Sunday, the Cleveland Browns will spend much of their time defending against passes.

Operating from a unique spread formation, the Cards have fashioned a potent aerial attack around the passing of quarterbacks Lamar McHan and rookie M. C. Reynolds.

The Browns, 6½-point favorites to whip the Cards, defeated them 35-28 two weeks ago at Municipal Stadium. But Reynolds almost pulled the game out of the fire for Chicago with his passing.

McHan started for the Cards and couldn't complete a pass in nine tries. Reynolds came into the game and hit for 11 completions and three touchdowns in 18 tries.

In last wee's 23-6 defeat of the New York Giants, McHan tossed two touchdown passes and set up another with a 59-yard pass to Ollie Matson.

"They may be green, but they're growing better every week," Brown added.

If Chicago can slow down the Cleveland offense — Coach Brown says the Cards looked much better defensively last week—the Browns' pass defense may prove the difference between victory and defeat.

Coach Frank Ivy, who took over this season after winning three Grey Cups in four years with Edmonton in the Canadian League, has introduced the double wing-T and triple wing-T in the pro loop.

His success is a matter of record. The Cardinals are tied for second place in the Eastern Division and lead the entire league in total offense. They have lost two of their four games only because of failings on defense.

Ivy's innovations come from Canadian football, which is played with 12 men who toss the ball around as if they were on a basketball court.

These wing formations enable a team to exploit the passing game as attested by the Cardinal record of 63 completions in 119 attempts for 1,023 yards and 8 touchdowns.

"We may sacrifice a little straight power," says Ivy, "but we also have four or five men to pass to quickly. Also our backs are close enough so that they can take the ball and run with it."

In the double wing-T, the Cardinals split their ends as wide as desired. The quarterback and fullback remain in regular T-formation positions. The two halfbacks, however, are a yard behind the line of scrimmage and are directly behind or a step outside the tackles.

This gives the halfbacks an advantage of several yards if they are used as pass receivers. They can also pull back and block for the passer.

In the triple wing-T, the fullback leaves his regular position and moves in between the split end and the halfback. This way the Cardinals have five pass receivers who can move into the secondary quickly.

Owner of Widower Creed Loses License in Dope Case

NEW YORK (AP)—State harness racing commissioner George P. Monaghan has revoked the licenses of Thomas H. Loss, of Swanton, Ohio, and Harry Johnson, of Shelbyville, Ind.

Monaghan took the action Tuesday on the basis of state laboratory tests which showed that a saliva sample taken from the harness race horse Widower Creed showed presence of a drug.

Loss was the owner and Johnson the groom of Widower Creed.

The saliva sample was taken from the horse after the $50,000 Trans-America Pace at Yonkers Raceway at suburban Yonkers, N.Y., Sept. 30.

Monaghan ordered that the trainer and driver, Howard F. Beissinger, of Hamilton, Ohio, be suspended until the end of the New York harness racing season at Yonkers Nov. 25.

Widower Creed finished third in the Trans-America Pace and won $6,000. The money probably will be redistributed.

After the laboratory tests showed presence of a drug, Loss, Johnson and Beissinger were suspended pending further investigation.

Monaghan said Tuesday that the groom admitted swabbing Widower Creed's nostrils with a drug five minutes before the Trans-America Pace. The groom said he did it because the horse was snorting.

Beissinger was in Kentucky for five days prior to the race. He had been training Widower Creed since Aug. 15, taking over from Jimmy Wingfield, of Leesburg, Ga. Loss had stipulated that Johnson would have to be retained by Beissinger. A trainer usually hires his own groom.

Broncos Eye Trip to JA For Final Tilt

Ashville High School winds up its gridiron season Friday night with a trip to Jonathan Alder for a Darby Valley League encounter.

Fresh from a 24-0 win over Greenview Friday night, Coach Russ Gregg's footballers will be looking for their second DVL victory and third in seven starts.

The Broncos turnes back Greeview in convincing style as their infantry and air attacks functioned with precision. Coach Gregg noted that his squad will have to maintain this same sharpness to cope with a strong Jonathan Alder crew.

Fullback Bob Hoover, recently switched from end, was the Broncos sparkplug against Greenview. The big junior rambled for three touchdowns, picked up 167 yards and played a rugged game on defense.

The passing and running of quarterback Bill Hollenback also figured strongly in the victory as did the definsive work of Frank Gloyd, Howard Newton, Bill Haddox, Steve Stover, Chuck McNeal, Bill Cromley and Dick Wilcox.

Formal Setting Due For Welter Bout

The bout will be nationally televised via ABC, starting at 6 p.m., PST.

The setting will be the grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel, where in July beauties from all over the world resided for the Miss Universe contest.

Black ties and stiff shirts are hardly mandatory but 1,000 or so sports-minded Long Beach socialites figure to be on hand. They will pay $25 or $15 for the fight and dinner.

AP Guesspert Picks Badgers To Trip Bucks

Army, Auburn, Irish, Oklahoma Also Tapped For Victory Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — You say they have taken the kicking out of football? Hmmmm? What about these letters? After all, 36 correct guesses in 52 attempts last week isn't too bad, is it?

Army over Pittsburgh: Two of the East's most rugged. Dawkins —if he plays—and Anderson give the Cadets an edge in speed.

Louisiana State over Florida: How can the Tigers be denied. They have a Cannon, Bill that is, while the Gators must counter with 145-pound Jimmy Dunn.

Auburn over Maryland: The Plainsmen don't score heavily but their opponents usually don't score at all.

Oklahoma over Kansas State: The Sooners, now playing in the Big Eight, will have a winning streak of two come Saturday night.

Washington State over Southern California: Have you ever seen so many ups and down as in the Coast Conference this fall?

Notre Dame over Purdue: All the Irish walking wounded are back in good health. They will need to be to stop the team that spilled Michigan State a week ago.

Princeton over Cornell: Who would have thought two months ago that this one might decide the Ivy League title?

FRIDAY

William & Mary over George Washington.

SATURDAY

EAST: Miami over Boston College, Brown over Rhode Island, Buffalo over Columbia, Connecticut over Delaware, Dartmouth over Harvard, Holy Cross over Boston University, Rutgers over Lehigh, Navy over Penn, Penn State over Syracuse, Yale over Colgate, Villanova over Richmond.

SOUTH: Mississippi over Arkansas, Clemson over South Carolina, Duke, Furman over the Citadel, Kentucky over Georgia, Mississippi State over Alabama, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Tennessee over Florida State, Vanderbilt over Virginia, Virginia Tech over West Virginia.

MIDWEST: Iowa over Northwestern, Cincinnati over Oklahoma State, Colorado over Nebraska, Arizona State over Detroit, Bradley over Drake, Michigan State over Illinois, Indiana over Miami (Ohio), Tulane over Kansas College of Pacific over Marquette, Michigan over Minnesota, Missouri over Iowa State.

SOUTHWEST: Rice over Texas, Baylor over Texas A&M, Hardin-Simmons over Wichita, North Texas State over Tulsa, Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech.

FAR WEST: Air Force over Utah, Oregon over California, Idaho over Arizona, Oregon State over Washington, UCLA over Stanford, Colorado State over Utah State, Wyoming over New Mexico.

Matthews Collects Nod Over Zulueta

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — You'd hardly guess by listening to young Len Matthews today that the unbeaten lightweight prospect had just successfully passed his most important ring test.

Somewhat dejected despite his unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night over crafty Orlando Zulueta, Matthews complained, "I never really got a good shot at him. He taught me a lot but I'd like to fight someone who would throw more punches."

Zulueta, 30-year-old Cuban veteran of 110 fights, seemed relieved that he had survived two knockdowns and lasted the distance.

"The kid's got class," Zulueta said.

The bout was the 15th for Matthews, a 19-year-old Philadelphian who only once before had gone 10 rounds. The greater experience of the Cuban showed in early rounds when he held his own strictly on his boxing and counterpunching ability.

As Mathews explained it afterwards: "I wanted to get him suddenly, as fast as I could." He said trainer Quenzell McCall warned him against this, cautioning that he might leave himself open.

Matthews, at 133, two pounds less than Zulueta, said he took McCall's advice, but it didn't look it from ringside. He started moving faster and throwing harder and more often, apparently worried that ring physician Alfred Ayella Jr. would stop the fight.

Top-Ranked Teams All Know 'Giant-Killers' Just Itching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How secure did one of those fabled Western gunslingers feel with a few notches on his shootin' airn? Ask any of the top football teams. Someone is always waiting to gain a "rep" by knocking them off.

This is not a spontaneous thing. A team begins its plotting over the weekend with scouting reports and movies, then goes into the operations stage with the first practice session.

Let's look in on the practice fields of teams playing some of the nation's top teams this week.

At Pittsburgh, where top-ranked Army meets Pitt Saturday, Panther Coach Johnny Michelosen is trying to stop a siege of fumbleitis that has hampered a Pitt attack. He is also sharpening up a passing attack led by Ivan Toncic and Bill Kaliden to exploit a weakness the Cadets showed in beating Virginia last Saturday.

Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn, looking toward Ohio State (No. 2) Saturday, expects tackles Dan Lanphear and Jim Heinecke to be off the injury list. The first two teams worked only lightly after being by Iowa Saturday for their first loss.

The Rice Owls, playing fourth-rated Texas Saturday night, worked only lightly and watched films of last year's Texas game. Guard Charley Knight, on the injured list, was pronounced available for the game.

Maryland Coach Tommy Mont made wholesale changes in his second and third teams as he strived to get some depth for his game with fifth-ranked Auburn. Winless Arkansas, playing sixth-ranked Mississippi, studied films of its loss to Texas while Coach Frank Broyles moved Glenn Throckmorton into the right tackle spot replacing Eddie Walker, who moved to right guard.

Northwestern's (No. 8) first-stringers exercised lightly, then were excused as they began prepping for seventh-rated Iowa. The Hawkeyes ran through a signal drill, while Kansas State went through a long drill, without contact work, to correct glaring errors in its 32-8 loss to Missouri. K-State plays ninth-ranked Oklahoma.

South Carolina has a Thursday date with Clemson (No. 10) and went throughout its final heavy contact work, emphasizing pass defense against Clemson quarterback Harvey White.

TOY ROUTE BUSINESS

Our distributors' toy reorders are pouring in because our toys are not "average rack merchandise." We have the largest assortment, widest price range, best packaging.

Since there are some choice territories available in this general area, a few sincere individuals will acquire a profitable self-service "TOY STATION" route in grocery, drug stores, etc., WHICH WE WILL ESTABLISH FOR YOU. Cheap toy racks are rapidly being replaced by the sensational "TAK-A-TOY" merchandising displays. The stores make money. So do you, but this is

Not a Get-Rich-Quick Scheme

Our representative will arrange appointments soon in your vicinity to present complete details. Must have a car and $590 cash for toys, displays and store accounts. Write fully about yourself, give address, phone number to:

TOY ROUTE BUSINESS

We are highly respected toy brokers rated by Dun & Bradstreet, selling toys nationally. Now expanding in your area.

Our distributors' toy reorders are pouring in because our toys are not "average rack merchandise." We have the largest assortment, widest price range, best packaging.

Since there are some choice territories available in this general area, a few sincere individuals will acquire a profitable self-service "TOY STATION" route in grocery, drug stores, etc., WHICH WE WILL ESTABLISH FOR YOU. Cheap toy racks are rapidly being replaced by the sensational "TAK-A-TOY" merchandising displays. The stores make money. So do you, but this is

Not a Get-Rich-Quick Scheme

Our representative will arrange appointments soon in your vicinity to present complete details. Must have a car and $590 cash for toys, displays and store accounts. Write fully about yourself, give address, phone number to:

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I have been married almost 11 years but we still can't agree on money matters.

He gives me $25 a week to run the house. With this I feed the four of us, three meals a day (he prefers a lunch I pack to anything he can buy, and besides it's cheaper). Also I supply our toothpaste, soap, hand lotion, mouth wash, laundry supplies, and many other such items.

For his birthday I buy him a gift; on father's day a gift for him and sometimes for his father also; sometimes on Mother's Day and Easter a gift for his mother. One year I bought the children a bicycle and pedal car months before Christmas and had them almost paid for by Christmas. Occasionally I buy something for myself or socks for the children—all this out of $25 a week.

I serve tasty meals and never run out or want more money before the week is over. The only reason we have trouble is because my husband comes back to me for part of the household money—to buy his coffee while at work; something for the car; fertilizer for the lawn; shrubs, trees, anything he happens to need or want.

When he does, I ask what he did with his money—and it always makes him mad. He says he doesn't ask an accounting of what I spend, so why should he explain? Also that if I can spend household money for other items than food, why can't he do likewise for things he wants? The only reason I buy these extra things out of grocery money is because we wouldn't have them, otherwise.

He makes over $400 a month, we pay $93 a month on the house, drive two cars, and our bills are always delinquent. (He handles the bill paying.) We never spend a dollar on entertainment, except for monthly installments on the TV set.

I've told him if we can't afford $25 a week for house money, to give me less; but not to come back and ask for part of it. Am I being selfish or unreasonable?

C.L.

DEAR C.L.: Just the other day, a marriage counsellor listed three principal character faults that cripple marriage. They are emotional immaturity, meanness about money, and jealousy—and third items are really rooted in the first, he said.

The emotionally immature person is rigidly selfish, as a rule—"strictly from hunger," feeling insecure and unsatisfied; and striving by self-indulgent "getting" to assuage his tensions. Thus he insistently asserts his (or her) "wants" above any consideration due his associates.

Your husband fits this description, it seems. His attitude about money IS mean. Indeed it is almost senseless in its badgering, illogical attempts to justify his cheater inroads on your overworked household allowance which you manage magnificently, I think.

In protesting his selfishness, you aren't being at all unreasonable. But how to open his eyes to his wrong-doing is the question. Maybe this discussion will help—if it doesn't "make him so mad he can't see straight." Anger is often used as a smoke screen by those who don't want to face unpleasant truth.

M.H.

Top Rushing Honors Seen For Brown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Statistics are proving what many opposing football players already accept as fact — that Jim Brown may be the greatest rushed in the history of the National Football League.

Official NFL figures released today show that the bruising fullback of the Eastern Division — leading Cleveland Browns is well on his way to setting a rushing record for one season and also has a good shot at a scoring record.

The former Syracuse star has accounted for 635 yards on 94 running attempts in the Browns' four winning efforts this year. That figures out to a 6.8 yard average per carry and a game average of almost 159 yards. The game figure is about 65 yards more than Steve Van Buren averaged when he set the present NFL league rushing record with 1,146 yards for the Philadelphia Eagles in 1949.

Another big reason for the Browns' success is rookie Bob Mitchell whose season total of 370 yards rushing is second best in the league. Mitchell has averaged 8.8 yards for each of his 42 runs. Tom Wilson of Los Angeles is a distant third with 302 yards by running.

Eddie Lebaron of the Washington Redskins, John Brodie of San Francisco and John Unitas of Baltimore continue to head the passers. Lebaron has the best average gain per pass attempt, 9.70 yards. Brodie has the best completion average, 58.8 per cent in 68 attempts. Unitas' passing has accounted for the most yards, 907.

UCLA Tackle Wins Honors as Lineman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Leeka, UCLA tackle, put on his college football pads for the last time Saturday. He played such a bangup game against Washington that he was named today the Lineman of the Week.

Leeka, a 6-0, 202-pounder, was one of six UCLA seniors who closed out their half-season of eligibility because of Pacific Coast Conference penalties. Leeka and his mates bowed out in style as UCLA surprised by beating the Huskies 20-0 for their first PCC triumph.

16 Survivors Remain In Senior Tournament

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) —Sixteen survivors moved into the second round of the North and South Seniors Golf Tournament today after a first round marked by upper bracket victories for medalist Thomas Robbins of Pinehurst and venerable Chick Evans.

Robbins, whose three under par 69 gave him the medal Monday, romped past P. J. Farley of Grand Rapids, Mich., 6 and 5, in his first match play test.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I have been married almost 11 years but we still can't agree on money matters.

He gives me $25 a week to run the house. With this I feed the four of us, three meals a day (he prefers a lunch I pack to anything he can buy, and besides it's cheaper). Also I supply our toothpaste, soap, hand lotion, mouth wash, laundry supplies, and many other such items.

For his birthday I buy him a gift; on father's day a gift for him and sometimes for his father also; sometimes on Mother's Day and Easter a gift for his mother. One year I bought the children a bicycle and pedal car months before Christmas and had them almost paid for by Christmas. Occasionally I buy something for myself or socks for the children—all this out of $25 a week.

I serve tasty meals and never run out or want more money before the week is over. The only reason we have trouble is because my husband comes back to me for part of the household money—to buy his coffee while at work; something for the car; fertilizer for the lawn; shrubs, trees, anything he happens to need or want.

When he does, I ask what he did with his money—and it always makes him mad. He says he doesn't ask an accounting of what I spend, so why should he explain? Also that if I can spend household money for other items than food, why can't he do likewise for things he wants? The only reason I buy these extra things out of grocery money is because we wouldn't have them, otherwise.

He makes over $400 a month, we pay $93 a month on the house, drive two cars, and our bills are always delinquent. (He handles the bill paying.) We never spend a dollar on entertainment, except for monthly installments on the TV set.

I've told him if we can't afford $25 a week for house money, to give me less; but not to come back and ask for part of it. Am I being selfish or unreasonable?

C.L.

DEAR C.L.: Just the other day, a marriage counsellor listed three principal character faults that cripple marriage. They are emotional immaturity, meanness about money, and jealousy—and third items are really rooted in the first, he said.

The emotionally immature person is rigidly selfish, as a rule—"strictly from hunger," feeling insecure and unsatisfied; and striving by self-indulgent "getting" to assuage his tensions. Thus he insistently asserts his (or her) "wants" above any consideration due his associates.

Your husband fits this description, it seems. His attitude about money IS mean. Indeed it is almost senseless in its badgering, illogical attempts to justify his cheater inroads on your overworked household allowance which you manage magnificently, I think.

In protesting his selfishness, you aren't being at all unreasonable. But how to open his eyes to his wrong-doing is the question. Maybe this discussion will help—if it doesn't "make him so mad he can't see straight." Anger is often used as a smoke screen by those who don't want to face unpleasant truth.

M.H.

The former Syracuse star has accounted for 635 yards on 94 running attempts in the Browns' four winning efforts this year. That figures out to a 6.8 yard average per carry and a game average of almost 159 yards. The game figure is about 65 yards more than Steve Van Buren averaged when he set the present NFL league rushing record with 1,146 yards for the Philadelphia Eagles in 1949.

Another big reason for the Browns' success is rookie Bob Mitchell whose season total of 370 yards rushing is second best in the league. Mitchell has averaged 8.8 yards for each of his 42 runs. Tom Wilson of Los Angeles is a distant third with 302 yards by running.

Eddie Lebaron of the Washington Redskins, John Brodie of San Francisco and John Unitas of Baltimore continue to head the passers. Lebaron has the best average gain per pass attempt, 9.70 yards. Brodie has the best completion average, 58.8 per cent in 68 attempts. Unitas' passing has accounted for the most yards, 907.

UCLA Tackle Wins Honors as Lineman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Leeka, UCLA tackle, put on his college football pads for the last time Saturday. He played such a bangup game against Washington that he was named today the Lineman of the Week.

Leeka, a 6-0, 202-pounder, was one of six UCLA seniors who closed out their half-season of eligibility because of Pacific Coast Conference penalties. Leeka and his mates bowed out in style as UCLA surprised by beating the Huskies 20-0 for their first PCC triumph.

16 Survivors Remain In Senior Tournament

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) —Sixteen survivors moved into the second round of the North and South Seniors Golf Tournament today after a first round marked by upper bracket victories for medalist Thomas Robbins of Pinehurst and venerable Chick Evans.

Robbins, whose three under par 69 gave him the medal Monday, romped past P. J. Farley of Grand Rapids, Mich., 6 and 5, in his first match play test.

Even Sen. Bricker Running 'Scared' in 1958 Campaign

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you think Republicans aren't running scared in Ohio this year, take another look at the U.S. senatorial election race.

Sen. John W. Bricker, widely regarded as a good bet to win re-election over his Democrat opponent, former congressman Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, is campaigning harder than most candidates on the GOP ticket.

The former governor is dividing his time between appearances in vote-heavy cities and junkets into rural areas where he is admittedly strong.

"Only if Republicans get out to vote will we win; if they don't we won't," Bricker warns repeatedly. He asserts the warning is needed because Democrat voters out-registered Republicans this year.

Young is firing up the campaign by attacking the record compiled by Bricker during a dozen years as senator. "He consistently opposed those measures which work for the interests of all the people," concentration of power.

Bricker points with pride to the record that has made him a recognized leader of conservatives opposing waste in government and Young insists. That theme runs through most of his speeches.

That record, he says, shows consistent support for higher social security benefits, unemployment compensation, minimum pay, aid for the aged, workmen's compensation and similar welfare aids.

Just as consistently, Bricker says, he has opposed "give away programs" and welfare proposals he considered unrealistic. In the last Congress, Bricker says, he supported labor law amendments designed to give rank and file workers greater control over their unions.

Young, who boasts various labor endorsements, challenges Bricker's claims. The Clevelander opposes a proposal to regulate labor contracts that will be on Ohio ballots as state constitutional amendment issue No. 2. Bricker says he will vote for the issue.

Bricker hits farm controls and terms the economic balance between Ohio agriculture and industry the best of any state. Young favors price supports that he claims will give farmers their fair share of the nation's economic wealth.

Young blames Republican administration policies for the recession that Bricker says already has ended with rising employment. Young also criticizes the Eisenhower foreign policy that Bricker says brought peace with honor.

Young is an old hand at statewide campaigning. The 69-year-old attorney served four terms as congressman-at-large before Ohio began electing U.S. representatives only by districts. He was elected congressman-at-large in 1932, 1934, 1940 and 1948. Two years ago he was the Democratic nominee for attorney general. He was unopposed for his party's senatorial nomination this year.

Bricker, 65, began his Ohio political career in 1923 and has been in public office almost continuously since 1929. Besides three terms as governor and two as attorney general, he was the Republican vice president nominee in 1944. After two years in private law practice, Bricker won election to the U.S. Senate. He was re-elected in 1952 for a second six-year term.

Since 1947, Bricker has served on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee and recently was among those mentioned for Republican leader in the next Senate if re-elected.

Twang Talk

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)— Arthur Harris, "twanged" when he talked. Playing with his toys, he caught a coil spring ¾ of an inch long on his tongue and upper jaw. Manfully, he went to bed without telling his parents and ate breakfast the next morning without saying a word. Teachers at Lagrange school noticed his peculiar diction and sent him to a hospital where the spring was removed.

Radcliffe Reports On Convention at Local Lions Meet

A highlight of the meeting was a report by Bernard Porter on the Lions Pumpkin Show booth. Porter said the operation was successful and thanked all who participated.

LADIES Night is scheduled for the next meeting. Charles Smith, Gerald Crites and George Wharton will serve on the entertainment committee.

The Pickaway County Women's Democratic Club met last night in the home of Mrs. Carl Purcell, 156 W. Franklin St., to organize for the coming general election.

The Democratic Women plan to march upon every home here in a three day period to urge residents to "Get out and Vote". Precinct workers attended the meeting for final instructions.

Med-O-Pure Dairy Donates Cartons for UNICEF Night

Eight Hundred half-pint milk containers have been given to the UNICEF "Trick or Treat" project by the Med-O-Pure Dairy, Mrs. Glenn Snyder announced yesterday.

These milk cartons will be carried by boys and girls from 11 cooperating Circleville churches on Trick or Treat Night, Thursday October 30. The children will be wearing UNICEF arm bands as identification. People who are called on by the children are urged to give pennies for the containers instead of the usual candy and other sweets.

"Ten cents will give a child in Korea a glass of milk a day for almost two months," Mrs. Snyder said. "Also the cost of one ice cream cone will protect 10 children from tuberculosis in Chile," she added.

The United Nations Children's Fund "Trick or Treat" night is being sponsored by the Circleville Ministerial Assn. During the past month, movies of the work that the Children's Fund has been doing in depressed areas of the world have been shown to children in the various city schools, and a UNICEF recording telling of the real Halloween spirit of good will and helpfulness is being used in the various church Sunday Schools. This Sunday it will be used by the Methodist Church and St. Philip's Church during the Church School session.

"WE DO HOPE that everyone project are Trinity Lutheran, First who is asked to give to UNICEF will respond," Mrs. Snyder said, Methodist, St. Philip's Episcopal, Presbyterian, Calvary EUB, First EUB, Church of Christ in Christian Union, St. Joseph's Catholic, Baptist, Gospel Center and the Church of the Brethren. In Stoutsville the St. John's EUB Church also is participating.

Democratic Women Meet

The Pickaway County Women's Democratic Club met last night in the home of Mrs. Carl Purcell, 156 W. Franklin St., to organize for the coming general election.

The Democratic Women plan to march upon every home here in a three day period to urge residents to "Get out and Vote". Precinct workers attended the meeting for final instructions.

Pack 170 Float Ties

Cub Scout Pack 170 tied for third place in the Pumpkin Show's amatuer division float contest instead of gaining honorable mention as previously announced.

Twang Talk

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)— Arthur Harris, "twanged" when he talked. Playing with his toys, he caught a coil spring ¾ of an inch long on his tongue and upper jaw. Manfully, he went to bed without telling his parents and ate breakfast the next morning without saying a word. Teachers at Lagrange school noticed his peculiar diction and sent him to a hospital where the spring was removed.

Med-O-Pure Dairy Donates Cartons for UNICEF Night

Eight Hundred half-pint milk containers have been given to the UNICEF "Trick or Treat" project by the Med-O-Pure Dairy, Mrs. Glenn Snyder announced yesterday.

These milk cartons will be carried by boys and girls from 11 cooperating Circleville churches on Trick or Treat Night, Thursday October 30. The children will be wearing UNICEF arm bands as identification. People who are called on by the children are urged to give pennies for the containers instead of the usual candy and other sweets.

"Ten cents will give a child in Korea a glass of milk a day for almost two months," Mrs. Snyder said. "Also the cost of one ice cream cone will protect 10 children from tuberculosis in Chile," she added.

The United Nations Children's Fund "Trick or Treat" night is being sponsored by the Circleville Ministerial Assn. During the past month, movies of the work that the Children's Fund has been doing in depressed areas of the world have been shown to children in the various city schools, and a UNICEF recording telling of the real Halloween spirit of good will and helpfulness is being used in the various church Sunday Schools. This Sunday it will be used by the Methodist Church and St. Philip's Church during the Church School session.
